ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It is a great pleasure for me to acknowledge with thanks and gratitude to Dr. Amereswar Mishra, Professor and Head of the Department of Political Science, Utkal University, Vani Vihar, without whose guidance and supervision, the work would not have been completed. I am deeply indebted to him for his constant encouragement, timely suggestions, constructive criticism, painstaking efforts and invaluable hints with whole hearted cooperation during the entire course of investigation. My thanks are also due to Mrs Mishra and the family who have rendered me all help ungrudgingly when approached at the residence of Dr Mishra at odd hours.

I am grateful to all the members of the faculty of Political Science for providing me encouragement in carrying out my research work.

My sincere thanks one also due to Trilochan Dash, the then principal of Godavarish Mahavidyalaya and Sri S. Swain, Head of the Department of Political Science and other staff of the said college whose keenness and sincerity enabled me to prepare this Ph.D. course.

I am grateful to the authorities and librarian of National Institute of Rural Development, Hyderabad ; Tata Institute of Social Science, Mumbai Bankers Library, Calcutta ; Parija Library, Utkal University ; Orissa University of Agriculture and Technology, Bhubaneswar ; State Library, Bhubaneswar, Orissa State Archives ; Gopabandhu Academy of Administration, Bhubaneswar ; Bureau of Statistics and Economics, Government of Orissa, Bhubaneswar ; Vivekananda Library, Bhubaneswar for permitting me to consult their valuable collections for the purpose of the study. I also thank the authorities of DRDA Bokaro, Lead Bank Office, Bokaro; Reserve Bank of India, Bhubaneswar and the Block development offices of Chas Block for making available to the relevant records and data for my study.

Deep gratitude is due to my husband Mr. Banchhanidhi Mishra, who constantly helped me in collecting all the necessary data and information relating to the banking system in preparation of this Thesis.

My friends and relations who have all wholeheartedly helped me in this work also deserve to be thanked for their contribution and encouragement.

I convey my deep sense of gratitude to the respondents consisting of rural people and the bank officials for their cooperation and response without which the study could not have been possible. I express my thanks to BAS Computer for making out this dissertation.

While the credit for this work must go to the above mentioned well wishers and friends, I alone am responsible for the short-coming and lapses that the work might have contained.

Finally, the thesis is dedicated to my parents whose blessings have sustained me all throughout this research work.
