A Note

While going through the final typescript of the thesis I noticed two major discrepancies which, despite my best efforts, still remain. One is that in some cases the regions in the Indian subcontinent do not appear in proper order. The second is that during initial drafting place-names were mostly spelt following publications consulted. Since the publications span a long period of time, variations in spelling still remain, despite our efforts to make them uniform.