ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This thesis, right from the stage of conceptualization of the theme of the topic to that of designing the layout owes much to my respected guide Dr. M. Selvam, Professor and Head, Department of International Business and Commerce, Alagappa University, Karaikudi. His deep knowledge in various disciplines and his unique qualities as an ideal research guide inspired me to pursue this work under him. He thoroughly trained me in the research methodology, and words are not enough to convey my gratitude to him. In short, I am very much indebted to him for his immense and consistent help.

I express my heartfelt thanks to Dr. T. Balakrishnan, Vice-Chancellor of Periyar University, Salem, for his relentless support and constant encouragement. But for his blessing, it would not have been possible on my part to accomplish this task. I am immensely obliged to him.

I extend my profound gratitude to Dr. P. Chellathurai, Registrar, Periyar University, Salem, for his inspiring thoughts, which encouraged me to complete the research work quickly.

I convey my gratitude to Alagappa University, Karaikudi, and its former Vice-Chancellor Dr. A. Ramasamy and the present Vice-Chancellor Dr. P. Kanniappan for having given me the opportunity to undertake the research work. My thanks also go to Dr. S. Sathyamoorthy, Professor and Head in-charge and all the faculty members of the Department of International Business and Commerce, Alagappa University, for their timely and valuable help.
I convey my thanks to all my colleagues in Periyar University. Especially I thank Dr.S.Shanmugasundaram, Professor and Head of the Department of Commerce, Dr.A.Jayakumar and Dr.N.Rajendhiran, Readers in Commerce, Periyar University, who motivated me to complete the research work as early as possible.

I hereby record my sincere thanks to NABARD Head Office, Mumbai, for permitting me to carry out this research work and for having provided me the needed access to relevant data sources. I thank all the staff members of NABARD Regional office, Chennai, particularly Dr.S.Saravananvel, District General Manager, who made the necessary arrangements for providing me the relevant data. My thanks also go to those Financial Institutions which gave me the name-list of the farmers, who benefited from them. I place on record my deepest sense of gratitude to all the farmer-respondents to the study who spent their valuable time in filling up the schedule related to this research work.

I am indeed very grateful to Dr.P.Selvaraj, District Manager, NABARD, Tiruchirapalli district, for his valuable assistance and for supplying the necessary data for my research work.

I am very much grateful to Dr.K.G.Jayaprakash, Senior Research Fellow, CSRI Project, whose guidance was helpful to me for the analysis and interpretation of the data. I should thank all my former colleagues of D.G.Vaishnav College, Arumbakkam, Chennai, for their help, particularly Prof. K.S.Sathyanarayanan, School of Management, who was helpful to me in collection of data.
I record with happiness my thanks to all my well wishers, particularly Dr. N. Sreedharan, Professor and Head of the Department of Hindi (Retd), Presidency College, Chennai, and Dr. P. Kaliya Perumal, Regional Joint Director of Collegiate Education (Retd), Coimbatore Region, for their encouragement.

I express my thanks to M/S Global Net, Salem, for typing this manuscript neatly. Last but not least, I have no words to express my sense of gratitude to my beloved parents, brother, sister, relatives and friends. My special thanks are due to my wife Mrs. M. Porkodi who in my absence took the entire family responsibility courageously and helped me to complete this work and my daughter K. P. Padmavathy small kid, who spared me to concentrate on my research. Numerous other people helped me in this work in one way or other and I remain always grateful to them.

This doctoral thesis is dedicated to my beloved parents, Prof. K. Karuppan, Joint Director of Collegiate Education (Retd), and Smt. Mariammal Karuppan.
