ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

As one moves in life one has to be fortunate enough to come across extremely talented and very knowledgeable people. I proudly say that one of them is my supervisor Dr. Ram Sable, an I.I.Tian fellow. I express my deep sense of gratitude to my guiding supervisor, Dr. Ram Sable, Reader in Commerce, University Department of Commerce, S.N.D.T Women's University, Mumbai. Who not only supervise and encourage me and made valuable suggestions which enriched this study but also helped me in many other ways. Without his continuous guidance and inspiration this research work would not be possible.

The initial thought and ideas for this study topic was suggested by Dr. G.Y. Shitole Reader in Commerce, University Department of Commerce, SNDT Women's University, Mumbai for which I am very appreciative, so I am thankful to him.

I also appreciate the support given by R. A. Podar College of Commerce and Economics Staff, specially Principal Kuriala K.G., and Vice Principal Seeta Ramanna and Mr. Kothasthane R.S. H.O.D, Dept. of Commerce and Dr. P. K. Bandgar, Senior Lecturer, SIWS College, Mumbai.

I have been helped by some of the Staff at Tata Institute of Social Sciences, some of the staff at Mumbai University, Indira Gandhi Institute for Research and Development, Mumbai, my husband Chandrabhan, mother in law Smt. Kesarbai and our home (SNDT Women's University) Staff, as well as library staff members of Mumbai University, TISS, SNDT Women’s University and R.A. Podar Commerce College, Mumbai, in making it possible to put together the context of this research study in their own ways, and I sincerely thank them for that.

I am thankful to Dr. Sanjay Kaptan, Head University Department of Commerce, SNDT Women’s University, Mumbai for giving me all the possible support in the completion of this thesis.

Finally my special thanks to my daughter Poonam who gave me moral support throughout these past couple of years.
