Acknowledgement

I would like to express heartfelt gratitude to my supervisor Dr. Himanshu Prabha Ray. Without her scholarly guidance, utmost patience and unstinting support, this work would not have been possible. Her strict yet affectionate guidance made this journey of knowledge less strenuous. The weekly discussions helped me develop a perspective and devise a rigorous methodology for this thesis.

I would also like to acknowledge the able scholars for their help in my research. I am especially indebted to Dr. Baba Mishra for providing me unpublished archaeological materials on Kalabandi. Also heartfelt thanks is due to Prof. S.C. Panda, Dr. P.K. Behra, Dr. D. Chopdar, Dr. S. Pradhan, Dr. P.K. Nayak and Dr. P.P. Mishra of Sambalpur University, who encouraged me to pursue higher studies. Further, I must express gratitude to Dr. M.A. Dhaky and Dr. U.S. Moorti of American Institute of Indian Studies, Gurgaon for extended discussions. I would also thank my friend Subash Khamari for providing the photographs and undertaking joint surveys. I am also thankful Dr. L.S. Nigam, Dr. B.P. Singh, Rahul Kumar Singh and Gulab Singh, who were generous to show their coin collections.

The Junior Research Fellowship from Indian Council of Historical Research, New Delhi provided the required financial support for pursuing this doctoral research. The fieldwork at several sites of Chhattisgarh and western Orissa wouldn't have been possible without this fellowship. My sincere thanks to ICHR.

The fellowship from Department of Culture, Ministry of Human Resources Development, Government of India, helped me to undertake a detailed study of South-Kosala coins. It provides key insights to this research. The award from Victoria and Albert Museum, London through Nehru Memorial Museum Trust, New Delhi for a small study research grant helped me to document and study the temples of South-Kosala region. This provided the basis for exhaustive analysis of temples.

Acknowledging help of my friends cannot be expressed in words. The time spent together during the course of my study at J.N.U. were indeed enjoyable and memorable. My friends Surya Bhushan, Geetesh, Manoj, Narendra, Negi and Pramod have been of constant support and encouragement. Thanks is due to also Vibhanshu, Indrajeet and Sujit.

My special thanks to Rabi Ranjan Pujari, Uma Kant Mishra, Kanhaiya, Ishwar, Kanak, Birendra, Abhishek and Deepak for their timely support at crucial moments. The long discussions with Uma bhai, Abhishek and Birendra helped in the completion of this work.

I owe a deep sense of gratitude to staff of Central Library and Dr. J.S. Lohia and Mr. Sunil of D.S.A. Library of J.N.U. for promptly locating the required materials. Also, thanks is due to P.G. Department of History, Sambalpur University, Orissa for allowing access to unpublished M.Phil. dissertations, submitted to P.G. Department of History. Also, special thanks is due to Dr. Jagdish Yadav, Mr. Rizvi, Mr. Dharmander and other staff of Art & Archaeology Library at American Institute of Indian Studies, Gurgaon. My sincere thanks to Dr. Vandana of AIIS, who helped me to locating photograph and provided copies of them. The staff of National Museum library, New Delhi, Archaeological Survey of India library, New Delhi and ICHR library, New Delhi provided generous help to access the materials.

I am also indebted to A.P. Computers, New Delhi in particular Vinay and Vikram for having typed this thesis.

Last but not the least, I very humbly express my deep sense of gratitude and affection to my family members, especially my 'Maa' and 'Bapa', who have been constant source of inspiration and provided unstinted love.

Dillip Kumar Sebak