A RESEARCH ENDEAVOR is constantly an artefact of solidarity and this milieu the claim to be the exclusive original 'author' does not signify more than a 'signatory' status. A true student and researcher of our academic sanctum learns more of his intellectual limitations and in this process becomes more humble. But this is the key, as the almighty have stated, to re-cognition of the real self. It must have been the fruits of some unseen merits of actions, and the blessings of my parents and teachers that inspired me to become a student of an ocean-like palmleaf text.

Although "to a deep sense of reverence no amount of words can express" still than I take this opportunity to put on record my most sincere sense of reverence and gratitude to my teacher and research guide Prof. H.P.Ray. The study would never have been reached to its present shape without the gracious supervision and personal encouragement of Prof. Ray. She has been extremely generous for allowing me to provide fruitful guidance in this regard. With her remarkable insights and observations, she nurtured in me an interest, love and honour for the intellectual traditions of India. It would be an ever-illuminating experience for all those who have got the opportunity to attend her lectures, as student or researcher. My last five years of association with her have had a profound impact upon me. I recollect the exciting years of instruction, recalling the ever so many important insights that came to her frequently and spontaneously, which she tested and retested in the most meticulous fashion. From every practical point of view, she has been the main supporter of this work. She has seen it grow from its inception, as teacher, to its conclusion. She has added new dimensions to my work, helping me to view palmleaf manuscript as an ongoing process and to view it not only through its art, but also as the place where this process is occurring.
As we feel committed to learn more, take forward and disseminate the amount of knowledge contained in our academic way of life, so I believe her constant guidance, able supervision, exacting standard of scholarship and compassionate encouragement will be going to stay with me through the passage of time.

I take this opportunity to express my sincere regards to the teachers at the Centre for Historical Studies, who have been a source of encouragement and intellectual support for me. In this regard, I wish to recall Prof. Muzaffer Alam, Prof. Dilbagh Singh, Prof. Kunal Chakravarty and Prof. Majid Siddiqui, Chairperson, took deep interest and utmost care while this research was taking shape.

My grateful thanks and gratitude are due to Prof. Sadhu Charan Panda, Sambalpur University, who had evinced keen interest and promised considerable help in this work. I owe deep sense of gratitude to Dr.P.K. Behera, Sambalpur University, for his proffered help and valuable suggestions during my field visits to Sambalpur University Museum.

My special thanks goes to friends whose contribution to this research project can be realized from its conceptual framework to the concrete form. I fondly recall Dr. M. Somathilake, (Asst. Professor Art History, University of Peradeniya, Sri Lanka) a remarkably lovable person, can be a matter of pride to anyone. I am fortunate to have a friend and well-wisher like him. Who, to the best of memory, covertly inspired me to work hard on this research theme. I deeply acknowledge the cooperation, which I received during his stay in Delhi. With deep reverence, I acknowledge Dr. Dheerananada (Asst. Professor History, University of Peradeniya, Sri Lanka) for his immense co-operation and the virtues he has taught through actions during his PhD research.
I wish to express my deep appreciation and thankfulness to my friends Pradeepji (Assistant Professor, Department of Linguistics, University of Delhi) and Bhisma Rout (Economist- Asian Institute of Transport Development). They have taken every care and have provided utmost support whenever needed throughout my PhD research.

With great complacency, I lace on record the support I have received from Dr.Rajnish Kumar Mishra and Dr. Santosh Shukla (Asst. Professors) of Centre for Sanskrit Studies, JNU. I must express my gratitude to them for their valuable guidance and suggestions during the itinerary of my work.

Though some of my friends R. Radhakrishnan, Ford Scholar, IPCS, Dr.Arunim Bandopadhyaya, Lecturer, M.S.University, Baroda and Manoja Kumar Sahu, Company Prosecutor, Govt. of India, who left JNU recently could not able to see the fruits of their advice on the thesis, still I shall always remain grateful to them for their useful thoughts that sprinkled an impetus to my work.

While the bulk of material were studying by me at the Orissa State Museum and Sambalpur University Museum, many individuals have been helpful in allowing me access to study works in these institutions. In Bhubaneswar, I wish to thank Dr. Karunakar Biso, Curator, Palmleaf Manuscripts Section, Dr. Snigdha Tripathy, Curator, Epigraphy Section, Orissa State Museum have always been helpful and informative, no matter what my enquiry was. Further, Mr.Harekrushna Rana and Susant Pattanayak of Orissa State Museum have been exceedingly helpful to acquire relevant photographs. In Sambalpur University Dr. P.K.Nayak, has always provided me with gracious and enthusiastic access to the storerooms to study the manuscripts materials. Sincere thanks are due to Curator Mr. Bighnaraj Pradhan and Sri Manbodh of Samabalpur University Palmleaf Manuscript section for sharing their institution’s manuscript material.
In the initial years of my studies, generous funding has been provided to me for this thesis. I would also like to thank my alma mater, the JNU (Dean, School of Social Sciences) for having afforded me a financial assistance towards my fieldwork. Further, ICSSR field study grant was a great source of help for my ethnographic research. I wish to express my thanks to Mrs. Meena Walia (Deputy Director, ICSSR) for that gracious funding.

I would be failing in my duty if do not thank the Indian Council of Historical Research (ICHR), Govt. of India, for having awarded me a research scholarship, which had enabled me to commence the work. I would like to extend my special regards and thanks to Mr. S.M. Mishra, Deputy Director (Research), (ICHR), New Delhi, who took utmost care during the whole tenure of ICHR Fellowship. It is due to him only, I did not face any obstacle of officialdom. I hope that the completion of this research project will bring him pleasure and contentment.

In the process of completing this thesis, the phenomenal expositions of Jayaprakash Pradhan have helped me to resolve many difficulties. One may often wander how come these multiple streams of learning can get so beautifully and authentically synthesized in one single personality. I owe to his compassionate encouragement that made it possible for me to give the work the present form. Also I am greatly beholden the cooperation received from Sesha. Since one year he has remarkably given his best valuable support towards the completion of this work.

I deeply acknowledge the support, which I received from Gaurav, Sailendra, Nagendra and Surendra. I am fortunate to have friends and well wisher like them. During PhD work, I have enormously received cooperation from Duraiji, Dharmendraji and Sunil of CHS, I owe my appreciation to them.
Particularly my thanks are due to Sohaib and Manoj who have patiently gone through the manuscript and rendered it flawless. I am beholden to them for this.

I wish to thank the interviewees of Raghurajpur and its suburbs (particularly Ashesh Swain and Biswanath Swain of Raghurajpur) for their gracious hospitality that has been extended to me by them who lived and worked on palm leaf (during the itinerary of my field work) has always been a source of great pleasure.

I express my gratitude to all the concerned authorities whose libraries have been utilized for consultation.

Central Library, Archaeological Survey of India, New Delhi
Teen Murty Library, New Delhi
DSA library of Centre for Historical Studies, JNU
Central Library of JNU,
National Archives library
National Museum Library,
Indian Council of Historical Research Library
Library of Archaeological Survey of India
Indira Gandhi National Centre for Arts Library
American Institute of Indian Studies, Library, Gurgaon.
Orissa State Museum Library
Orissa State Museum Palm leaf Manuscripts Library, Bhubaneswar
Orissa State Archives library, Bhubaneswar
P.K.Parija Library, Utkal University, Bhubaneswar.
Sambalpur University History Museum palmleaf manuscripts Library, Sambalpur.
Sambalpur University Central Library, Sambalpur.
DSA Library, History Dept. Sambalpur University.
Regional Archives, Sambalpur.
INTACH, Bhubaneswar.

About the illustrations incorporated in this thesis are by the courtesy of ASI, AIIS, OSMPML and SUPML. The copyright of these photographs rests with the respective institutes or organisations.

On this auspicious moment, I seek the blessings of my parents and elders in my family. Without their exemplary patience and encouragement, completing PhD would have remained only a daydream. At the culmination of a phase of academic journey, I bow to the feet of my revered mama. My heart is filled with submission and indebtedness. With all humiliation and pride, I dedicate this work to her.

//iti//

(Panchanan Bhoi)