The first thing I should mention is that PhD Degree is actually never our own but it is a challenge aided by many. This research was supported by the CSIR fellowship and carried out at the National Centre for Antarctic and Ocean Research, Goa. I would like to deeply thank my supervisor Dr. N. Anilkumar, for his help, guidance and useful advice during the PhD work. I would also like to thank my co-supervisor, Prof. Harilal B. Menon, for useful discussions. I express my sincere gratitude to Dr. Marcus Dengler, IFM GEOMAR, Kiel, Germany, for the help rendered in the processing of microstructure profiler data.

I am thankful to Dr. C.T. Achuthankutty for encouragement throughout the course of the study and for the editorial suggestions in preparing the thesis. The encouragement and motivation given by former director of NCAOR, Rasik Ravindra is unforgettable. I also thank Dr. S. Rajan the Director of NCAOR for the support rendered during the PhD. I would express my gratitude to Dr. G.N. Nayak, HOD Marine Science for being prompt in the university related matters and critically monitoring the progress of my work. Thanks to all those with whom I worked during different scientific cruises on board Sagar Kanya, Sagar Nidhi and Boris Petrov.

Suggestions, advice and positive distractions from many were readily available within the OSSG group, NCAOR. I would like to thank all my colleagues of OSSG group at NCAOR, particularly Bhaskar, Rajani Kant Mishra, Sarat Chandra Thripathi, Sailesh Pednekar, Amit, and Venkat. I express my sincere gratitude to treasured scientific minds Denny P. Alappattu, Nuncio Murukesh and P. Sabu for useful interactions and discussions without which this thesis wouldn’t have achieved its objectives. I should not forget Ravi Naik who gave me the glimpses of ocean from a biologist’s perspective.

I sincerely thank Ms. Racheal Chacko for lots of support and friendship. I am also thankful to my colleagues and hostel mates Shramik, Sarunlal, Celsa, Sharon, Roseline, Neelu, Lalu, Prashanth, Anand, Ajit, Luvkush and Shiney for all their needful help and support during my stay at NCAOR. Thanks particularly to my traveling chums Manoj, Maha, Drishya, Paru, Sruti, Latika, Runa,, Nisha, Melena and Ashish for many laughs and hangouts. I would like to express my gratitude to Mr.D. Rajasekhar, Group head VMC and my colleagues Nishant, Bijesh and Jinesh at NIOT, Chennai for the support rendered during the writing of the thesis. I would like to extend my gratitude to Neha, for the joy and fun which I really wanted when I was writing the thesis. Finally I express my gratefulness to my parents for their support and encouragement.