ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This is one of the most difficult sections of thesis to acknowledge the people for their role they played to enable me undertake and accomplish this study but this is also an opportunity to express gratitude to the people, not only for their brilliant academia support but also for moral support as human really, I need.

First, I would like to articulate my deepest gratitude to my previous supervisor (Late) Dr. B. Kharbuli and present supervisor Prof. S. B. Prasad for their unwavering support and enthusiasm during the planning and execution of the field experiments, untiring guidance, patience, and availability, without whom I would probably be still trying to find out how design my experiment and interpret. Thank you Kharbuli sir for introducing me to the fascinating world of mosquito, and Prasad sir for your considerable amount of time you spent critically reviewing those look like thousand of drafts.

I would like to express my esteem and profound sense of gratitude to all the faculty member of the zoology department for their moral support and encouragement during a time, when I thought all hope is lost.

I also owe my special thanks to former director Dr. V. P. Sharma for his valuable suggestion and providing books, Mr. Mani of Regional Health Centre, Govt. of India, Shillong for mosquito collection and identification (adult and larval) training.

I am grateful to department of Zoology NEHU, Shillong for giving opportunity and heads of department for providing departmental facility during study, facility staff for encouragement and allowing me to use their lab facility.
This work was made possible through financial support provided by DSA- SAP and UGC, Non NET in form of fellowship, and identification key provided by Defence and Medical Entomology department of USA thankfully acknowledged.

A special thanks to all my friends and colleagues in who made the last five years fun and provided a motivating environment in which be trained and grow. Akalish, Lavenia, Magdeline, Silme, Jane, Daphi, Ester and Surbhi thanks for your help, laughter, and wonderful time to keep life balanced. They are undoubtedly the best example of genuine friendship I have the privilege to know.

Finally, it become possible due to boundless and warmest support of my Mummy and Daddy (Smt and Sri H. C. Srivastava), brother (Mr. Himanshu Srivastava), and sisters in law (Ms. Deepa Srivastava). I wish to express my loving appreciation to my wife (Sushma srivastava) and the cheerful interest of my sons Ansh Srivastava and niece Subh Srivastava whose time I borrowed to do this study.
