ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The whole process of completing this thesis has been an enriching one. I turn to God Almighty in humble obeisance for the numerous graces and blessings I received during the course of this work. The writing of this thesis has helped me to deepen my understanding of myths and archetypes in Garo (A-chik) Folk Narratives.

Many people have contributed generously towards the writing of this book. Dr. Jyotirmoy Prodhani has played a vital role in making this work see the light of day. He graciously accepted to supervise my research project, and made necessary suggestions and corrections during the course of the research and above all for his keen interest in the topic. I appreciate the interest and cooperation of his family members as well. I cannot but say a sincere thanks to Prof. Caroline R. Marak, the Joint Supervisor, for her valuable suggestions and for taking pains to go through my work.

My sincere gratitude to Prof. Sujata Gurudev, Head, Department of English, NEHU, Tura Campus, Tura, for helping me to get enrolled for the Ph.D and for all the help.

My heartfelt thanks go to Rev. Sr. Pyngrope Rosa my Provincial Superior, FMA Province of Shillong for granting me the necessary permission to undertake this study and for her continued encouragement and support.

I owe a debt of gratitude to Rev. Fr. V.A. Cyriac SDB, the former Principal of Don Bosco College, for allowing me to pursue the research. I also thank Rev. Fr. Alex Mathew SDB, the present principal for his encouragement and for granting me leave from College, whenever it was required.

I cannot but express my sincere gratitude to the Teaching and Non-teaching staff of the Departments of English and Garo of NEHU, Tura Campus, for their support and encouragement. I would like to place on record my thanks and appreciation to Mr R. S. Thakur for his timely advice and suggestions, Dr. Angela Ingty and Dr. Fameline K Marak, who, inspite to their tremendous work load spared their valuable time to go through my work, and for making the necessary corrections.

Special thanks to the Library Staff, NEHU, Tura Campus, and of NEHU, Shillong, for their availability and generous service to procure the needed books and materials.

I cannot forget the Teaching, Non-Teaching and the Library Staff of Don Bosco College. My sincere thanks and appreciation to my friends of the Department of English, for their support, encouragement and love.

I feel it my grave and bounded duty to express my sincere word of gratitude to Rev. Sr. Phyllis Bamon and the sisters for releasing me from my duty thus enabling me to complete my research. I also thank the inmates of Auxilium College Hostel.

My heartfelt gratitude goes to all my ‘friends’ who have been a source of inspiration and pillar of support. The numerous services rendered to me by them cannot go unacknowledged, therefore, my special thanks goes to all of them for standing by me at all times and for their ever willingness to help me in this endeavour of mine.

Last but not the least, I am really indebted and wish to express my special thanks to my family members – my mother, brothers and sisters and their family members, nieces and nephews, and well wishers for being supportive to my undertakings.

Tura

Dated: August, 2012

Lucy R. Marak