BIBLIOGRAPHY
BIBLIOGRAPHY

BOOKS

BOOKS
(Continued)

Crook, J (1993) Comparative experiences of men and women who have sustained a work related musculoskeletal injury. In: Abstracts: 7th World Congress on Pain, IASP Publications, Seattle,

Crook, J (1982) Psychosocial Factors in Rehabilitation, In: R. Roy and E. Tunks (Eds.), Chronic Pain:Williams and Wilkins, Baltimore,

DeDomenico G (1994) New dimensions in interferential therapy. A theoretical and clinical guide. Reid Medical Books: Linfield; Edinburgh, USA

Fordyce (1976) Behavioral Methods for Chronic Pain and Illness, Mosby, St. Louis, BOOKS
(Continued)

BOOKS (Continued)

JOURNALS AND PERIODICALS

Bassett, C.A.L. 1989. Fundamental and practical aspects of therapeutic uses of pulsed electromagnetic fields (PEMFs). CRC Critical Reviews in Biomedical Engineering 17:

Bodofsky, E. (2002). "Treating carpal tunnel syndrome with lasers and TENS." "Arch Phys Med Rehabilitation" 83(12):

Johnson M et al, (1999)The mystique of interferential currents when used to manage pain. (J. Physiotherapy); 85(6).

Revil SI et al. (1976). 'Reliability of a linear analogue for evaluating pain', "J. Anaesthesia", 1:

