Acknowledgements

At the outset, I would like to express my gratitude to all the people, institutions and organizations for their advice, guidance and cooperation towards completion of my thesis on Governance in Healthcare Technology: A Study on Policies & Practices of Safe use of Medical Devices.

First and foremost, I would like to express my sincere gratitude & heartfelt indebtedness to my supervisor Dr Akhil Ranjan Dutta, Associate Professor, Department of Political Science, Gauhati University for his continuous support in the course of my research. His untiring effort in shaping a physician to a social science researcher through infectious enthusiasm, compelling arguments and pervasive knowledge is deeply appreciated. He was kind enough to allow my day to day clinical work but he also acted as a benevolent timekeeper to ensure timely completion of the research work. As a physician I am able to appreciate a fresh social science perspective on health inequality, through the exchanged arguments with Dr. Dutta, which is at my personal level -the most valuable outcome of this interdisciplinary project.

I will forever be thankful to all the faculty members of the Department of Political Science, Gauhati University for their encouragement, insightful comments and questions. I am especially grateful to the former Head of Department, Professor Monirul Hussain for successfully implanting certain critical ideas on Foucault which helped me develop a critical theoretical framework for the present study.

Prof Alaka Sarmah, present Head of the Department was highly supportive to my work, and her encouragement made it possible for a novice researcher to finish the project in time.

My sincere thanks are due to Prof. Sandhya Goswami, Dr. Jayanta Krishna Sarmah, Dr. Dhruba P Sharma, Dr. Shubhrajeet Konwer, Dr. Joanna Mahjebeen and Mrs. Barasa Deka for being supportive, and providing me critical inputs during the departmental presentations of the research findings.

I must thank Dr Nani Gopal Mahanta, whose encouragement has motivated me to start my Ph. D work. Dr Mahanta initiated me to undertake social science research. I deeply appreciate his encouragement, and honestly admit indebtedness for years to come.

Word of appreciation and thanks may never be enough for the staff in the Department. Still I am making an effort of thanking Naba Kalita, Sandhya Gurung, Binita Chamuah and Mukul Sarmah for their invaluable help.

I am also thankful to the Liberians and other staff of K K Handique Library, Gauhati University and ICHR Regional Library for their support towards carrying out my research.
I thank all the editors of the journals: Advances in Applied Sociology, US; Indian Journal of Social Development, New Delhi; International Review of Comparative Sociology, New Delhi and Journal of Political Science, Department of Political Science, Gauhati University for publishing the articles related to the current research.

I sincerely express my gratitude and indebtedness is to Dr Tonmoy Das, the eminent Nephrolgist and the Director of International Hospital, Guwahati where I engaged professionally.

I appreciate the support I received from all my physician friends including Jayantamadhav, Kamal, Santanu, Nilom and the fellow colleagues Ranjan, Pradip and Nilu while carrying out the research work.

My departmental staff at Radiology & Imaging, International hospital was kind enough to help me with the demands of my research work, I thank them all.

Dr. Hridayananda Goswami was kind and supportive with valuable comments and encouraging words which I acknowledge with due sincerity.

I thank my parents for giving me all the opportunities in life.

My sincere apologies to my wife Dr. Vijaya, for missing out on so many things- I promise to catch up. I do acknowledge your contribution, in my academic eccentricities.

My two young sons Nitish and Abhigyan, the budding citizens of new democracy suffered my absence, missed the family time while I was addicted to my academic indulgences – I promise to make up for the deficits.

Last but not least Atri Baruah, young and energetic researcher in the Department of Political Science, Gauhati University - I cannot thank you enough for all the things you did for me!

I admit that in spite of all the help and guidance from all - I am wholly responsible for all the deficits.
