ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I wish to express my gratitude to those who have encouraged and helped me in various ways in the completion of this study. I am especially grateful to my supervisor, Professor Shanta Dutta, who has guided me throughout, by every possible means, and has painstakingly undertaken to go through all the chapters thereby minutely pointing out all the aberrations my writing betrayed. She gave her time and energy to me most generously to answer my questions, and I benefited greatly from her broad learning, critical acumen and imaginative insights. Her perceptive criticism and appreciation of my ideas were a constant source of encouragement and challenge to me. I deeply valued her ideas and suggestions. Her continued interest in my work has been of the greatest value to me; without the benefit of my encounter with her, this study would not have been possible in its present form.

My deep sense of gratitude goes to the Honourable Vice Chancellor, Prof. Geshe Ngawang Samten, who has extended his continuous support and co-operation to me ever since I joined the Teaching Faculty at the Central University of Tibetan Studies, Sarnath, Varanasi.

I acknowledge too the courtesy and generous assistance of the staff members of the National Library, Kolkata, the British Council Library and the Library of the American Center, Kolkata. I am particularly indebted to all of them for their considerable support.

Finally, I must record my warmest thanks to my parents and my late grandmother who were always there beside me, endured me, comforted me and have been the constant source of the strength that I required so much.
