SUMMARY AND CONCLUSION
SUMMARY AND CONCLUSION

1. Immunization at central nervous system definitely cause changes in the peripheral innate immunity.

2. The magnitude of response also differ depending upon the route of administration.

3. With the available data it could be suggested that privileged nature of the brain is incomplete.