Acknowledgement

I express my sincere gratitude to some persons, whose constant encouragement and guidance has culminated in the successful completion of this doctoral thesis.

The conception, as well as, inspiration behind pursuing such a topic came from my late Grandfather Shri Prosanto Kumar Pal, Eldest son of Late Dr. Radhabinod Pal. It was through the exposition of his experiences of travelling and working as personal secretary of his father, Dr R.B. Pal, that the researcher was enlightened about the legal aspects of the discourses of Dr Pal. The researcher being the living descendant of Dr Radhabinod Pal, in his experiences with the Japanese people both in India and Japan, has observed the reverence with which Dr Pal is still remembered even today. Many of the materials for this research has been aptly supplied by my Grandfather from his personal collection at home, as well as many academic well-wishers in Japan and in India and even in Australia. Special gratitude is due to Mr Motoyoshi Noro, ex-Japanese Consul General in Kolkata as well as the members and staff of the Japanese Consulate in Kolkata, for being a source of constant support and encouragement.

I would also like to thank the librarian of the Department Of International Relations, Jadavpur University, Shri Partha Pratim Bose, and Documentation Officer Srimati Nandini De and Miss Kankana Das for helping me in consulting the references that were required to complete the dissertation. Special thanks are due to Prof. Arindam Ray, Prof. Nilimpa Ghosh and Anushree Ghoshal for being a source of constant academic and technical support, required to complete this thesis.
