ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

At the outset, I wish to gratefully acknowledge and thank all the people who have helped me to successfully complete the research thesis.

First and foremost, I express my sincere gratitude to my supervisor, Professor Dr Saroj Ghosh, Department of Music, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for her valuable guidance and support throughout the research work.

I am also indebted to Dr T Unnikrishnan, former Vice chancellor and Professor of Music at Indira kala University, Khairagarh, and voice culture expert, for his timely guidance, cooperation and vast knowledge in the field. He has been an inspiration to me.

I seek blessings from my Guru, Padamshree Pandit Ulhas Kashalkar, Hindustani Classical Vocalist and Guru ITC- Sangeet Research Academy, Kolkata, who guided me in tough times and challenged me to work harder and achieve my goals. Without his blessings and encouragement, I wouldn’t have been able to complete my research.

I am especially grateful to Mrs Priya Chaturvedi, Head of Music Department, The Doon School, Dehradun, who despite of her busy schedule, always helped me in understanding Western Music concepts, whenever asked.

A number of people provided me with very important information and help along the way by elaborating on the current trends and situations in the field of voice culture. Therefore, I wish to thank all the musicians, friends abroad with whom I have corresponded via internet and other resource people, without their support, I would not have been able to maintain the continuity of my research.

I would specially like to thank ITC- Sangeet Research Academy, Kolkata and the Librarian, where I was a research scholar to have helped me collect primary resource materials and shape the title of my thesis.

Thanks are also due to the staff members of the main library of Panjab University, Chandigarh, for their kind cooperation.
I am grateful to Prof Dr Arvind Sharma for assisting me in editorial improvements of the thesis.

Finally, I am obliged to express my heartfelt gratitude to my beloved parents, my father Dr Arvind Sharma, my mother, Mrs Anita Sharma and also would like to thank my peers and friends, who have always encouraged me to continue my academic pursuits and strengthened me to complete this research work.
