This thesis is dedicated to my Dad, without his love and guidance I would not be where I am today.
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

“No duty is more urgent than that of returning thanks”

Words are inadequate to record my profound gratitude to the Almighty for giving me the will and ability to accomplish my goals. I offer my earnest prayer for giving me an opportunity to pursue such a prestigious course.

In the course of my studies and research, I have met extraordinary people and received generous help in so many ways that I will be forever grateful for all the encouragement and support. First and foremost, I owe a tremendous debt to my supervisor and guide, Professor Dr. D. M. SABLE, I appreciate with much gratitude all the time and energy he invested in guiding me along the sometimes rocky path that was my PhD studentship. A million thanks, SABLE sir, for all the support and advice and for your patience and understanding.

I am very grateful to have Dr. Deepak Kulkarni as my Dean under whose guidance; I could successfully achieve this milestone. It gives me immense pleasure to express deep sense of gratitude to Dr. Meena Kulkarni, who guided me in pathology work, whose persistent guidance, personal interest and continuous critical evaluation have shaped up this dissertation to the present status. Mere words are inadequate to express my gratitude to Dr. Arun Subramaniam for giving me the strength and confidence in accomplishing this endeavor to the best of my ability.

I thank my colleagues Dr. Kalyani Bhat, Dr. Supriya Kheur, Sachin Sarode for their valuable contribution, generous help and continuous encouragement throughout my post-graduate course.

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to Dr. Asha Chowdhery for their keen interest, encouragement and constructive criticism that helped me in wading through the deep waters of intricate professional arena and thereby improving the quality and quantum of my work, for which I owe a lot to them.

I express my special thanks to Dr. Shivaji, Dr. Nikhil, Dr. Angha, Dr.Pallavi, Dr. Suhas, Dr. Harshada and Dr. Girija for their encouragement, valuable suggestions and ideas at some or the other point of time.

I am very grateful to Mrs. Hema Lata Chougule, Mr. Vikas Mali and all other non-teaching staff for their valuable help. I convey heartfelt gratitude to all my patients for their tremendous co-operation throughout my study without whose support; this dissertation would have been incomplete.

I cannot conclude my acknowledgement unless I show my deepest gratitude to my family members as none of my dreams would have nurtured, modeled and matured without their unconditional love, constant encouragement, and unrelenting moral support. To Bhaau and Raju, thanks for caring and always showing an interest in what I’ve been up to. I couldn’t ask for better big brothers! To the rest of my family, I want to say a big THANK YOU - especially Shuhasini, Shubhangi and Dhanashree. You’ve all helped me become the person I am today - much love and respect.

Thank you my son-Riyaansh, your smile and cheerfulness has always given me energy to work and pass all the odds and obstacles.

Last, but definitely not least, My wife- Preeti. It’s difficult to put into words how much you mean to me. I’ve made it to the end in one piece because of you. I am sure you’re sick of hearing it but, what would I do without you? Your humorous replies to that often asked question and caring nature, lifts my spirits. Thanks for helping me keep it together, and even if you don’t believe it, you’ve been my rock.
