ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This thesis is the outcome of my research project. As I belong to Assam, where there is greatest need of IEC/BCC program for generating awareness among the common people on Health. And it was felt that it would not be difficult for me to collect field data on the subject. Thus I came to select the topic for my research: “Designing & Development of Health communication- a case study of Assam”.

As a member of the frontier areas of North Eastern States of India I had been feeling the need for a systematic work and a better understanding of the process of designing & development of Health communication in the state. I am extremely indeed privileged to have Prof. Kandarpa Das, Professor cum Director, IDOL, Gauhati University, Guwahati, Assam to guide me in this study. I am indebted to him for the pain he has taken to see this study was completed on time and for his constant encouragement, valuable guidance and tireless supervision at every stage of the preparation of this work. Once again, I would like to convey my special thanks to Prof. Kandarpa Das for spearing his valuable time and giving useful inputs from time to time to make this project successful.

I am grateful to Mr. Chandan Goswami, ex Head, Department of Communication & Journalism, Gauhati University, Guwahati, Assam, for giving me the opportunity to do my research. Further, I would like to record my gratitude to the learned other faculty members of the Department of Communication & Journalism, Gauhati University.

I am benefited from number of workshops organized by National Rural Health Mission, Assam and other states and government of India on Health Communication termed it as IEC/BCC workshops. I express my deep sense of gratitude to Prof. (Dr.) A.C. Baishya, Former Director, Regional resource Centre for NE states, Ministry of Health & Family Welfare, Govt. of India, Dr. J. B. Ekka (IAS) Mission Director, National Rural Health Mission, Assam for their encouragement and support.
My thanks are also due to the staffs of National Health Mission, Assam & Arunachal Pradesh, Staffs of Gauhati University library, Tata Institute of Social Sciences Library, Mumbai, VHAA Library, Guwahati and various documents from RRC-NE & NHM, Assam. I thank each one of them for sparing me their precious time and for sharing with me their life’s experiences. I extend heartiest thanks to all DPMs, DCMs & DMEs of Assam for helping me in data collection. I also extend special thanks to Dr. Tania Raju & Mr. Namgye T. Thungon for their best possible support.

I thank my father Mr. Bholo Bora and mother Mrs. Jinu Bora for their constant and untiring support. My thanks are to my elder brother, Dr. Pranjit Bora for his constant support, help and encouragement rendered throughout the study. I would like to thank all my friends and colleagues at Gauhati University and many more who help me make this project a success. Lastly but not least, I take this opportunity to thanks my lovely daughter Aastha Jyoti and my wife Anjumoni Das for sharing me equally all the pains and pleasures of my research and without their support it would not have been possible.

Above all, I humbly acknowledge the presence of the Almighty whose grace and blessing were experienced throughout the study.

Thanks
Yours’ Sincerely

Devajit Bora
