CONTENTS

Acknowledgement
List of Tables
List of Maps
Preface

Chapter I: MEWAR AS A REGION:
Introduction, Choice of the Region and Problems, Objective of the Study, Scope of the Study, Data-base, Method and Technique of the Analysis, Chapterisation.

Chapter II: THE REGION IN ITS HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVE:
Introduction, Historical Background - Ancient Period, Factors in the Early History of Mevar, Medieval Period, (Based on Ain-i-Akbari) - Administrative Units Formed by Akbar, Extent and Boundaries of the Sarkars, Administrative Structure, Pargana Administration, Identification of Mahals, Levels of Agricultural Efficiency of Mahals, Locational Analysis of Mahals, Strategic and Military Significance of Mahals, Major Routes, Aspects of Economic Geography, Modern Period, Conclusion.

Chapter III: THE PHYSICAL BASE OF THE REGION:
Introduction, Geological Structure - Pre-Palaeogolic, Paleozoic, Mesozoic, Physical Features, Drainage, Stream Analysis, Ordering of Streams, Bifercation Ratio, Stream Length, Drainage Density, Climate - Average Annual Number of Rainydays, Intensity of Rainfall, Variability of Summer Monsoon, Dispersion of Rainfall, Temperature, Humidity, Soils, Natural Vegetation.

Chapter IV: DEMOGRAPHIC AND SOCIAL STRUCTURE:
Section A: Demographic Structure:

contd...
contd. Contents.

Section B: Spatial Distribution of Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribes:
Concentration of Scheduled Caste,
Concentration of Scheduled Tribes.

Chapter V: STRUCTURE OF THE AGRARIAN ECONOMY:

Chapter VII: SETTLEMENT STRUCTURE - Rural and Urban:

Chapter VII: CONCLUSION AND FINDINGS:
Regional Character, Regional Problems and Prospects.

Appendix I
Appendix II
Appendix III
Bibliography