CONTENTS

Preface

Chapter 1: Introduction
- I. Existing approaches towards the analysis of agricultural change
- II. Commercialisation in agriculture
- III. Analytical foundations of the dissertation
- IV. The structure of the dissertation

Chapter 2: Bombay and Punjab: a geographical sketch
- I. Bombay
- II. Punjab

Chapter 3: Nature of data and problems of interpretation
- I. Agricultural statistics before 1947
- II. Heston on revenue yields per acre in Bombay Presidency (1886-1947)
- III. Dewey on the agricultural statistics of the Punjab (1867-1947)
- IV. Trend distribution of errors

Appendix Tables

Chapter 4: The economic transformation of Bombay and Punjab in the late nineteenth century
- I. Trends in agricultural commercialisation: problems of measurement
- II. Commercialisation and the growth of agricultural output in Bombay and Punjab
- III. The impact of commercialisation on the organisation of agricultural production and trade in the rural economy

Chapter 5: Agricultural growth in Bombay and Punjab 1907/8 to 1940/41
- I. The availability and coverage of crop output statistics
- II. Estimation of crop output trends
- III. Agricultural trends in Bombay and Punjab 1970/8 to 1940/41
- IV. Determinants of growth and stagnation in agriculture key inputs into agricultural production
Chapter 7: Capital formation and growth of agricultural output in Bombay and Punjab 1900-1939

I Capital formation and growth of agricultural output
II The distribution of land and the size of the surplus peasantry in pre-independence Bombay and Punjab
III Factors affecting the opportunity for investment
IV Mercantile capital and the peasantry in Bombay and Punjab before independence
V Persistance to the growth of private investment - alternative avenues of investment in the rural economy

Appendix Tables

Chapter 7: Agricultural trends in post-independence Bombay and Punjab

I Growth of agricultural output, 1952/53 to 1969/70
II Trends in inputs into agricultural production
III Identification of leading inputs

Appendix Tables

I Factors affecting capital formation in Bombay and Punjab agriculture: the historical experience after independence
II Constraints on the up-take of profitable investment opportunities

Appendix Tables

Chapter 9: Long term constraints on private investment I - mercantile domination of the peasantry in Bombay and Punjab after independence

I Inequality of landholdings and private capital formation
II Mercantile Capital in Bombay and Punjab

Chapter 10: Conclusion