ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I bow in reverence to the Almighty who inspired and gave me strength to accomplish this work.

For preparing this report, I have been debted to many individuals and institutions that it would be practically impossible to acknowledge each and every person by name. Hence what follows is an attempt to make urgent pay offs.

I take this opportunity to express my profound sense of gratitude to my guide Dr. Praveen Saxena, Department of Accountancy and Law, Faculty of commerce for his guidance, cooperation, kind encouragement and constructive criticism all along the investigation for which I am deeply indebted to him.

I immensely feel obliged to Prof. S.P. Kaushik, Head Department of Applied Business Economics and Dean Faculty of Commerce, who introduced me to this topic and for his generous advice, guidance and kind blessings.

I am also thankful to Dr. Pramod Kumar, Head of Accounting and Law and Dr. S. K. Sharma, Head, Business Administration, of the Faculty.

I will also like to thank officials of various organizations and departments which were visited by me to collect information for their cooperation and generous approach. Though the list is vast but important ones are Ministry of Environment and Forests, Pollution Control Board, Mathura Refinery and so on.

I also acknowledge thanks to all respondents who were included in the sample survey of the study for furnishing required information.

I thank the staff members of the several libraries which I have accessed during the course of this study, with special mention of DEI Commerce Faculty and Central Library.

I convey my honest allegiance and candid, regards to all the staff members of the Commerce Faculty of DEI, Dayal Bagh for their Co-operation, encouragement and moral support during my research work.
I come to thanking my many friends, well wishers and family members all of whom have contributed to this thesis by just being there with the right words at the right time, the tally is a vast one.

I would like to express my deep sense of respect to my parents Mr. and Mrs. Y. C. Gupta for their blessings and constant inspiration, which enabled me to complete my research work. I acknowledge all other family members who have contributed with their own special words of support.
