This thesis would not have been possible without the guidance of my supervisors, Professor Ipshita Chanda and Dr Anirban Das. Prof. Ipshita Chanda has remained one of the inspirations for my intellectual development since 2004. Our journey of mutual respect, admiration and friendship began when I started doing my M Phil thesis under her tutelage. Dr Anirban Das had been a critical and meticulous reader of whatever I wrote and taught me how to conceptualize my problematic in a theoretical plane. I would also thank Janaki Nair who was one of my supervisors initially.

Next I would like to thank Professor Tapati Guha-Thakurta who encouraged me to pursue my research. I also take this opportunity to thank two of my long term friends, Paramita Brahmachari and Rajlakshmi Ghosh. Paramita introduced me to film studies whereas Rajlakshmi pushed me towards critical theory. Rajlakshmi almost became my resource person and the friendship we cherished has been productive for my intellectual growth.

I thank Ujjoini Ghosh, Chitralekha Saha and Debjani Banerjee with whom I share a special friendship. In various ways they have taught me how to live.

I thank Sraman Mukherjee, Kamalika Mukherjee, Ranjana Dasgupta who were always ready to help me both in academic and non-academic matters. I am particularly thankful to Sraman with whom I shared the intricacies of my thesis writing.

My interaction with Anindya Sengupta, Senjuti Dutta, Samrat Sengupta, Sourav Kargupta had always been stimulating and fruitful. I particularly thank Anindya for sharing his views on Hindi cinema with me.

The warm presence of Rumela Roy and Adira Das Roy has always been encouraging. I must confess, at times I had almost invaded their familial space.

I want to express my gratitude to the entire staff at the library of CSSSC, particularly Jayati Yajnik and Sanchita Bhattacharyya.

I would forever remain indebted to Jadavpur University and Centre for Studies in Social Sciences, Calcutta for providing me with the institutional support that I needed for such a project.

Finally I thank my parents, Sipra Ghosh and Subhabrata Ghosh for bringing me up and letting me do whatever I aspired to do in life.
