Dedicated to the Memory of my venerable Grandfather
Alhaj Syed Shamas-ud-Din Bakshi who himself was extremely fond of Education.
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It gives me great pleasure to put to record my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. A. R. Yousuf, Reader, Post-Graduate Department of Zoology, for his incessant guidance and encouragement at all stages of the present investigation.

I am grateful to Dr. M. K. Raina, Prof. & Head, Post-Graduate Department of Zoology for encouragement and for providing me laboratory facilities. Thanks are also due to Prof. D. N. Fotedar and Prof. M. Y. Cadri for helpful suggestions.

I am highly thankful to Prof. R. George Michael (N.E.H.U, Shillong), Dr. Y. Ranga Reddy, Nagarjuna University (A.P.) and Dr. B. K. Sharma (N.E.H.U, Shillong) for their help in identifications of Cladocera, Copepoda and Rotifera respectively. It was a great experience to spend a few days with Prof. Michael in his Research Laboratory at N.E.H.U. I also express my gratitude to Dr. Nirmalendu Saha, Dr. Nirmal Joshi and Miss Devajani Ghosh for their help during my stay at Shillong.

Messrs Rahul Kaul, Musaid Iqbal and A. Karim (A.E) helped in the field collections. Mr. Zafar Reshi helped in the identification of macrophytes. Mr. Naseem-ul-Gani took great pains in drawing some figures for the thesis.

Dr. G. Mustafa Shah, Prof. M. Shaban, Prof. M. Y. Peerzada, Mr. M. Farooq, Mr. Anil Pandit, Misses Muni Parveen, Ulfat Jan, Naila Majid and Suneeta also extended help in one way or the other. To all of them I am greatly thankful.

I owe my gratitude to Prof. G. N. Bhat (Principal), Prof. M. S. Kuchai (Ex-Principal), and Prof. Mohd. Ismail of Degree College (Boys), Baramulla for their encouragement. My thanks are also due to Mr. Saif-ud-Din for typing out the thesis.

My younger brothers Altaf and Haneef (students of M.Sc; Electronics) were of immense help at various stages of the study for which I thank them and also give them my best wishes. I am no less thankful to my uncles Syed Zia-ud-Din and Syed Bashir-ud-Din for their moral encouragement.

I shall fail in my duty if I do not express my indebtedness to my parents without whose help, love and encouragement this work would not have been possible.

MASOOD MOH-UD-DIN
