REFERENCES
REFERENCES

Dopamine –a chemical released in the brain. Image retrieved from https://www.google.co.in/dopamine-release

Internet pornography by the numbers; a significant threat to society. Retrieved from http://www.webroot.com

Nayantara Narayanan (2014). Internet de-addiction centres in Delhi, Bangalore battle India’s newest lifestyle disease. Retrieved from www.letters@scroll.in Neurological change is reflected in reports of those who develop pornography addiction or dependence. Image retrieved from https://www.google.co.in/pornographyimages

Nita. (2009). Sex Surveys and research tell us how badly India needs sex education. Taken from a ‘Post’ on the Google site, December 1st, 2009.

Peter J & Valkenburg, P.M. (2006). Adolescents’ exposure to a sexually explicit online material and recreational attitudes towards sex. Journal of communication 56:381-95

Peter, J. & Valkenburg, P.M. (2007). Adolescents’ Exposure to a Sexualized Media Environment and Their Notions of Women as Sex Objects. Sex Roles, 56 (5-6), 381-395

Porn addiction among Indian youth. Image retrieved from https://www.google.co.in/India-today-porn-addiction

122

Sexually abused children. Image retrieved from https://www.shutterstock.com/image/photo/missing/kidnapped/abused/hostage/victim

The Indian Express, April 18, 2017, Porn Addicts, do you feel you’re not good enough for relationships? Retrieved from http://www.indianexpress.com

The release of dopamine. Image Retrieved from https://www.google.co.in/dopamine-release

124
The reward circuitry, the executive control- part of the brain. Image retrieved from https://www.google.co.in/reward-circuitry

Times of India, Bombay, TNN, September 13, 2015, (Nergish Sunuvala). Parishes, counsellors battle ‘plague of pornography’.

Times of India, Sunday February 28, 2016. Block Child Porn Sites:SC

Times of India, Mumbai Mirror, May 2, 2016 (Ektaa Malik). Suffering from Porn addiction?

Times of India, Ahmadabad, Tuesday Oct.18, 2016. Wi-Fi used most at Patna Station, porn tops the list.

Times of India, Ahmadabad, Sunday Dec.11, 2016. Porn found on suspended Gujarat University Official’s PC.

The XXX symbols are used to designate pornographic material. Image retrieved from https://www.google.co.in/symbols-used-to-designate-pornography

