ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

While preparing this thesis entitled “Environment, Poverty and Gender: A Case Study of Tinsukia District, Assam” which is the outcome of my research work in Tinsukia district of Assam, several persons were kind enough to provide me help, co-operation and assistance in the form of guidance, consultation, materials and information. It also gave me an opportunity to interact with the Forest departments, Environmental NGOs, and also to consult the ‘Gaon Buras’ of Tinsukia district which provided valuable inputs.

At first, I heartily convey my profound sense of gratitude and humbleness to my supervisor Dr. Alok Sen for inspiring me to initiate the work. I also extend my sincere thanks for his continuous support and guidance throughout my work, without his valuable guidance and help at every stage the work would not been completed.

I owe a very significant debt to all my respected teachers of the department of Economics for their active co-operation and valuable suggestion. I am highly obliged to Dr. Dibyajyoti Bhattacharjee and Mr. Manash Protim Kasyap for their precious guidance and help.

I extend my sincere thanks to all my intimate friends, respondents, Forest officials of Tinsukia district and the NGO personals who gave me tremendous support and help in conducting my research work.

Last but not the least; I have saved my acknowledgement of debt to my parents for their love, support and encouragement who have instilled in me courage, confidence and dedication in achieving my goals and helped me out from every difficulty in bringing my thoughts and labour into work.
