It is, indeed, the hands that help are more pious than the lips that pray (Ingersoll, 1896). It’s time and space for me to acknowledge a lot of such people who did help me accomplish the task of writing this thesis.

My first and foremost words of gratitude are due to my supervisor Prof. Chanchala K. Naik, for her inspiration, able guidance, valuable instant inputs, and more importantly constant encouragement which helped me in writing the thesis. With her continuous support and concern, I have been able to pursue my higher education. Indeed, I owe a sea of gratitude to her for guiding me at different stages of the research and for all that she has been to me.

I am deeply indebted to the following teachers for having motivated and guided me up to this level:

Prof. K. Amali Raj, Prof. G. Rajagopal, Prof. S. Mohanraj, Prof. Paul Gunashekar, Prof. Mukta Prahlad, Prof. Jayashree Mohanraj, Prof. Maya Pandit, Prof. Geetha Durairajan, Prof. Julu Sen, Prof. Veda Sharan, Prof. Meera Srinivas, Dr. Anand Mahanand, Dr. M. Udaya, Dr. Amita Ruth and all other teachers in School of English Language Education.

I record my special thanks to Mr. Vijaya Kumar C, for having been with me through the thick and thin situations of my academic life. His inspiration and industriousness made me be actively zealous towards my academic career. He deserves my deep sense of gratitude for his academic and emotional support.

My sincere thanks are also due to the staff members of the School of ELE: Mrs. Pallavi, Mr.Kalesha and Mrs. Lakshmi for their administrative help.

I also thank the staff members of the library, administration and mess for all their support.

I am greatly indebted to all the students who participated in the study and the Head Master and staff members of the school, where the study was conducted.

Most importantly, I owe a lot to Mrs.Aparna, my other half, for her constant support and encouragement which was what I needed most during the summer vacation. ‘Hats off’ to her for her tons of patience and co-operation. I also convey my special thanks to my in-laws Padma (attamma), Venkata Reddy (mama), Anusha Reddy and Nagaraj for their emotional support. How can I forget to mention my sweet kid cheerful Chathurya who makes me feel relaxed from all the ‘burdens’ I carry in my life.

And finally, words fail when I extend my deep sense of gratitude to my parents for everything they have done for me that helped me become what I am today.
