ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First of all, I would like to express my whole hearted thanks to my Guru Prof. V. Subramanian who has been an ultimate source of inspiration from the day I joined his lab for my M.Sc. project in 1995. Since then he has always been there whenever I looked up to him for any kind of help. Moreover, his acumen for new ideas always kept the atmosphere of the laboratory exciting. I would like to take this opportunity to salute him for his pioneering work and relentless efforts in the field of Biogeochemistry.

This work would not have been realised if Prof. Bernard Dupre of University of Toulouse, France has not been there to provide me the most modern facilities in his laboratories for several types of analysis of my research samples. Apart from that, because of his in depth knowledge of the subject, interaction with him proved to be immensely helpful in completing this work. I am also thankful to scientists and students from his laboratory- Michell, Bernard and Priscia. They rendered all help during my visit to their laboratory. I am also thankful to my friend Mohammed in Toulouse, France who was always there whenever I felt lonely.

The contribution of UGC in the form of fellowship has been a great help, which ensured that the research work went interrupted. My sincere thanks to the Dean, School of Environmental Sciences, JNU for providing excellent laboratory facilities. I would also like to thank Mr. V. Ramakrishnan, Mr. V.P. Thukral and other office staff of SES for their selfless cooperation.

I would also like to acknowledge the suggestions and guidance provided by Dr. Al Ramanathan from time to time. Thanks are due to all the labmates - Abhay, Annadurai, Charles, C. Chatterjee, Charles, D.S. Chatterjee, Dheeraj, Gautam, Madhavan, Manju, Manoj, Satyendra, Selvan and Suranjit. I owe thanks to colleagues from other labs- Pramod and Bala for their help during my research work.

Away from lab, my close coterie of friends Alok, Anup, Harinder, Mrinal and Sujit Ghosh have been a great support. They made my leisure-a leisure- truly rejuvenating and stood behind me in hours of need. I thank them all. I owe special thanks to Sebastian for his help in the field made the tough task of collection of sample in such a difficult terrain easy.

All my family members- Mai, Babuji, Manoj & Saroj Bhaiya, Bhabhi, Punam didi and Jija- were my constant source of inspiration and always stood by my decisions. I also owe thanks to my in laws- my father-in-law, mother-in-law, Mary, Anurag for the ultimate faith they had in me and the support they always provided.

Last but not the least, my very special thanks to my wife and colleague Anuradha, whose selfless support in the lab and at home helped me making this day possible. If I am called successful, she is The lady behind my success. I have no words to express my thanks for everything she has done for me.
