ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First of all, I am grateful to ICGEB for giving me the opportunity to work in molecular biotechnology and providing finance during my fellowship.

This thesis is the product of innumerable cooperative reactions that took place in the tenure of my Ph.D. It is both a privilege and a pleasure for me to thank all the persons involved for their help and support.

I am grateful to the GOD who blessed me with the opportunity to work at ICGEB in the field of biotechnology under the guidance of Dr. Siva Reddy. I am extremely grateful to Dr. Reddy for his guidance, valuable suggestions, utmost cooperation and training provided by him during the tenure of my Ph.D.

I am thankful to Prof. V. S. Chauhan, Director ICGEB for the extensive facilities and support and the opportunity to work at ICGEB.

I am sincerely thankful to Prof. S. K. Sopory, Dr. Raj Bhatnagar, Dr. Shahid Jameel, Dr. Leelavathi, Dr. Hassan Korkaya and M. Zafrullah for their thoughtful suggestions and help in various ways. I am especially thankful to Dr. Leelavathi who provided valuable suggestions and extended practical help whenever needed.

I extend my humble and warmest thanks to Prof. S. C. Maheshwari, and Drs. Sunil Mukherjee, N. Tuteja, Navin Khanna, N. Maheshwari, Nirupama Bhatnagar, Rajagopalraman, Suresh Nair and N. Chaudhary for their thoughtful suggestions and help in various ways. I am especially thankful to Dr. M. K. Reddy, who provided valuable suggestions and extended practical help whenever needed.

To my friends who stood by me when I needed them most: Riccardo gatta, Vladimir, Amanda, Gul, Asif, Hassan Solmaz, Fahri, Tatiana, Shams, Rushdi, Wu, Antonieta, Elena and Tam for providing a warm and healthy working atmosphere and for their cheerful cooperation. Their presence and vital help made research easy and enjoyable. I also thank my friends in Egypt for their help and their thinking about me always.
To Yash, Amit, Sharik, B. N. Singh, Tarannum, Vijaya, Wricha, Vineetha, Punjab, Mintu, Chamari, Divya, Shilpee, Basavaraj, Ajay, Rabi, Preeti, Ngoc, Aparna, Ratna, Sunny, Kalid, Moin, Milena, Jopal, Nural, Dhermander, Lalitha, Vivek and Sanchita for providing a warm and healthy working atmosphere and that much needed “cuppa cheer” when required. Special thanks go out to Archana, Vijay and Amit for their endless supply of patience and cheerful cooperation in the face of my continuous demands on their time.

I extend my warmest thanks to my seniors, Nareshji, Archana, Ivan, Veena, Giridhar, Gayatri, Drs Neeti, Snehlata, Pratibha, and Neema for their suggestions and cooperation.

I am thankful to my juniors, Mayur, Srinivas and Sachin for their cheerful cooperation.

I am thankful to Prakashji for his important help and support.

I also wish to thank Tina, Rekha, Radha, Ramesh, Sovan, Gita, Pratibha, Madan, Ashok and Ranaji for their assistance.

Above all, I am deeply indebted to my PARENTS, ALL MY FAMILY MEMBERS, ALL MY FRIENDS IN EGYPT AND FOR ALL THE MEMBERS OF EGYPTIAN EMBASSY IN DELHI for their much needed support, patience, understanding, encouragement in every possible way. Their perpetual and indispensable help and support has enabled me to reach this stage in life.

MOHEI EL-DIN SOLLIMAN