Acknowledgements

I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to my supervisor Dr. Mohan Rao, without whom the thesis would have remained an unfinished project. I owe to Dr. Rao the irredeemable debt of what is now about 7 years of hard mentoring, unflagging support and encouragement in the face of adversity in one form or the other. He has consistently nurtured, sustained and challenged my intellect throughout my academic experience. Dr. Rao has not only put up with my obsession with this subject, day and night, but has endlessly given me the benefit of his expertise as a highly imaginative and creative academic health professional, steering and developing my perceptions. I can never forget the way he has stood by me in the last phase of the thesis, putting on hold all his professional and personal engagements and braving the torturous Delhi summer so that I could avail of his suggestions at any moment. I also thank my supervisor, Prof. Rajeev Bhargava for sparing so much of his precious time and illuminating me with his clear insight and incisive comments on the subject.

I am greatly indebted to Prof. Imrana Qadeer, who indoctrinated me in public health and helped me to embark upon a journey on the rough sea of academics, frequently and vociferously providing reassuring support. I heartily thank the other faculty members of the Centre of Social Medicine and Community Health, especially, Prof. Ghanshyam Shah, Dr. Rama V. Baru, Dr. Ritu Priya Mehrotra, Dr. K. R. Nayar and Dr. S. Acharya, for their continuous support. I am also very grateful to Dr. Avijit Pathak, Dr. Praveen Jha, Dr. Dhrub Raina and Prof. Madhu Prasad for their intellectual inputs and suggestions on various chapters of the thesis. Furthermore, I must express my respect and gratitude to Prof. Deepak Kumar for his generosity, academic insights and every other kind of support.
The non-teaching staff of my Centre as well as the staff of JNU Library, Delhi, National Medical Library, Delhi, Teen Murti Library, Delhi and Ratan Tata Library, Delhi have been very cooperative and deserve special mention.

I am very much obliged to the Indian Council of Social Science Research, for the support extended by it towards the successful completion of the thesis.

The last three years of my life have witnessed many upheavals. Through it all, Neel and Tuni have been invaluable. They have stood like the rock of Gibraltar through storm and rain, egging me on and infusing me with fresh enthusiasm whenever I felt spent and lost. I have also drawn heavily from my other friends, Habib, Reyazuddin, Kamal, Hamad, Vipin, Shastri, Umesh, Reyaz, Zulfikar, Kamlesh, Ajay, Raghavendra, Udaiveer, Kaushal, Mukhtar, Swati, Vishal, Sanjay and Guddu, who were a great source of strength and always ready to help me in every way I needed. I owe my thesis also to the efforts of Vikram and Taruna. Together with Neel, they stayed with me day and night, sharing the entire load of typing, editing, correcting and giving the finishing touch to the thesis. I also thank Ma for the faith she had in me and for her continuous support. Last, but not the least, there are no words to describe the deep gratitude and affection that I feel for my parents and the rest of my family who have always inspired and supported me in my academic endeavour.

For the drawbacks in the thesis, if any, I alone shall be responsible.
