ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It is truly said, that every initiative involves hard toil and the greatest task of completing such initiative definitely depends upon the combined effect of the person himself and also those persons, who helps in completing that particular work. Thus, indeed it is a matter of great happiness and pleasure to express my sincere and heartiest gratitude and thanks to all those persons, who has lend their helping hand in completing my endeavor.

At the outset, I avail the golden opportunity, to express my sincere gratitude and respect to my esteemed guide and supervisor Mr. Sudhir Malakar, Associate Professor and formerly Head of the Department of Geography, University of Calcutta, for his constant support, immense hard work, excellent guidance, methodological working and his acute criticism and above all, always being fatherly to me. Words might simply fall short for expressing my humble thanks to him.

I wish to thank my teachers belonging to the Department of Geography, University of Calcutta, for their valuable suggestions, which has been proved to be quite helpful for me, while preparing the thesis. I also express my heartfelt gratitude to the staff of the library, Department of Geography, Calcutta University, for their constant help and cooperation. I am also grateful to the staff of National Library, Library of the Bureau of Applied Economics and Statistics, Library of Anthropological Society of India and also the library of Centre for Studies in Social Science, Kolkata.

I also wish to thank the various personnel of the Department of Education, North 24 Parganas, Department of Minority Affairs, Kolkata and North 24 Parganas, District Magistrate of North 24 Parganas. My special thanks goes to Block Development Officers of Basirhat and Barasat subdivision. I also take this opportunity to thank the officers of the Education Department of North 24 Parganas and Calcutta, Department of Higher Secondary Education, Kolkata etc. It is at this juncture, I also want to thank Mr. Bratya Basu, presently minister-in-charge of Tourism, (formerly Minister of Education) West Bengal, whose immense support has helped me during my survey.
I convey appreciation to my respondents, both Hindu and Muslim women, both of rural and urban background along with their families for sparing the valuable time in answering the questions. I also thank them for their cooperation and patience in answering my queries. The thesis would not be possible without their help.

I am also obliged to my fellow research scholars, Mrs. Soma Dey Mukherjee, Mrs. Debasmita Ghosh, Mrs. Sumana Debnath and Mr. Munsur Alam for their valuable suggestions and timely criticisms. I am also thankful to my juniors and the various staffs of Department of Geography and UGC for providing me with all kinds of mental and financial assistance.

At the personal level, I would like to express my gratitude to my parents, Mr. Suprakash Bandopadhyay, Mrs. Chandra Bandopadhyay, and also to Mr. Shyamsundar Bhattacharya (dadabhai) for their encouragement and constant support. I am also thankful to my in laws Mr. Asis Chatterjee and Mrs. Promila Chatterjee for their support in completion of this work.

Last but not the least, I utter thanks to my husband, Mr. Koushik Chatterjee, for his immense support and constant encouragement to complete the thesis. I am also thankful to my little son, Dibyarup Chatterjee, who was the source of my inspiration in completion of the thesis.