CHAPTER 1 INTRODUCTION AND PROBLEM STATEMENT

1.1 Introduction ............................................................................................................... 1

1.2 Historical Perspective ............................................................................................... 4

1.3 Features of IT Sector ............................................................................................... 10

1.4 Challenges Faced by IT Sector during Growth Period ........................................... 12

1.5 Venture Capital: A Source of Funding for IT Sector ............................................ 13

1.5.1 Historical Perspective ......................................................................................... 15

1.5.2 Venture Capital Financing in IT sector ................................................................. 21

1.5.3 Venture Capital Financing Process ................................................................. 24

1.6 Motivation behind the study .................................................................................... 24

1.7 Problem Statement ................................................................................................. 25

1.8 Organization of Thesis ............................................................................................ 26

CHAPTER 2 LITERATURE REVIEW

2.1 Introduction ............................................................................................................. 28
CHAPTER 3 OBJECTIVES OF THE STUDY AND HYPOTHESES DEVELOPMENT

3.1 Objectives of the Study ................................................................. 38

3.2 Hypotheses Development .................................................................. 39

3.2.1 Hypotheses Development on Determination of Selection Criteria of VCs .................................................................................. 39

3.2.2 Hypotheses Development on Key Investment Objectives of VCs ...... 41

CHAPTER 4 RESEARCH DESIGN

4.1 Nature of Research ............................................................................. 43

4.2 Sampling Plan ..................................................................................... 44

4.2.1 Sampling Frame ............................................................................. 44

4.2.2 Sampling Method .......................................................................... 44

4.2.3 Sampling Area .............................................................................. 45

4.2.4 Sample Size ................................................................................. 45

4.3 Data Analysis Tool ............................................................................ 46

4.3.1 Factor Analysis ............................................................................. 46

4.3.2 Correlation and ANOVA ............................................................... 47

4.4 Significance of Research .................................................................... 48

CHAPTER 5 ANALYSES & INTERPRETATION

5.1 Reliability Analysis ............................................................................ 49
