I offer my best regards and wholehearted gratitude to my revered teacher, Prof. D. P. Haldar, Professor of Zoology, University of Kalyani, for his valuable guidance, concrete suggestions and creative criticism throughout the course of my research work and preparation of the thesis.

I am glad to express my sincere regards to Dr. C. K. Manna, the present Head of the Department of Zoology, University of Kalyani and also to the erstwhile Heads of this Department for their kind permission and inspiration to undertake the research work.

I am thankful to University Grants Commission (U.G.C), New Delhi for granting a project fellowship to me from June 1st, 1998, in the form of a Grant-in-Aid project to my Professor.

I am also thankful to the AICRP on Agrometeorology, Bidhan Chandra Krishi Viswa Vidyalaya, Kalyani for providing me with the meteorological data and to the University Scientific Instrumentation Centre, Burdwan University for helping me in the Scanning Electron Microscopic study of a gregarine.

Sincere thanks are also due to my collaborators, Dr Biplob Kumar Modak, Dr Debrata Mukhopadhyay (Ray), Sri Amlan Kumar Mitra, Sri Saugata Basu, Smt. Monali Chatterjee, Sri Adhik Das and Sri Tapas Dey, for their friendly co-operation and valuable suggestions during the course of my investigation.

I convey my heartfelt indebtedness to Smt. Pratima Haldar for her tender motherly affection and encouragement in the accomplishment of the present study.

I am also thankful to my friend Sri Biswajit Bera for his constant cooperation in course of my present study.

I take this opportunity to express my sincere sense of gratitude to Smt. Jayati Chakrabarti, Smt. Saswati Chakrabarti, Sri Palash Mallick, Sri Himadri Guhathakurata, Smt. Susmita Ganguly, Smt. Sudeshna Sinha and Smt. Sumita Mazumder for their friendly cooperations and sincere help in the course of this investigation.

I am also thankful to Sri Nilotpal Majumder and Sri Biswajit Das for taking the trouble of typing and printing this thesis.

Thanks are also due to Sri Anup Modi for specimen collection during my present study.

I pay my eternal regards to my parents, elder sister, elder brother, brother-in-law and younger sister, whose contributions and inspirations in completing this thesis are immeasurable.

Last but not the least, I would like to express my heartfelt wishes to my little nephew Asva Maity who must have missed her "Unti's" company during the course of preparation of the thesis.

Place : Kalyani
Date : 27/4/2001

Sova Patra