ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

A thesis in its entire means certainly can be accomplished only by the guidance and assistance of many people. I take this opportunity to express my deepest appreciation to all those who provided me the possibility to complete this thesis.

First and foremost, I thank the Almighty God for the divine provisions and guidance that helped me to complete this thesis.

I have great pleasure in expressing my sincere thanks and gratitude to my guide Dr. E. Vijayakumary Head and Reader (Retd.) Department of Sociology, CMS College, Kottayam, for the continuous support, valuable advice, guidance, generous help, supervision and constant encouragement during the research. Without her guidance and persistent help this dissertation would not have been possible.

A special gratitude I give to Dr. Asha Mathew, Former Reader and Head of Sociology, CMS College, Kottayam and to Mrs. AmruthaRinu Abraham, HOD of Sociology, CMS College, Kottayam, and all my teachers in CMS College, whose contribution in stimulating suggestions and encouragement.

I am thankful for and would like to acknowledge many others who helped me along the way: This includes, Mr. Kuriachen, CMS College, Kottayam, Mr. Roy Kuruvilla and all the staff in the School of Social Science, MG University; all my friends especially Miss. C. Parvathy, who helped me with data collection; Mrs. Josna C George for her valuable advice, useful comments and support, and Mr. Biju Punthala, who proofed many of my papers.

Furthermore I would also like to acknowledge with much appreciation the crucial role of the staff and librarians of CMS College, Kerala University and MG
University, who gave the permission to use the library and for helping me with my secondary data collection.

I am beyond grateful to all people and groups, especially all the IT professionals, who participated in my study and were generous with their valuable time. There are many individuals not named here who have rendered their help in this research, to them I express my gratefulness.

I would like to thank my parents, in-laws, dear ones and all well-wishers for their encouragement and prayer support that helped me complete this thesis in a good note.

Last but not least, I express my deepest gratitude to my beloved husband Mr. Johnson George for his encouragement, persistent support and inspiration. Salomi Mary Johnson, my dearest daughter, thank you for reorienting my life.
