ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The thesis was made possible due to the help and support from several people, I am thankful to all of them. My supervisor Prof. G. Thirupathi Kumar helped me with his invaluable suggestions, carefully considered my ideas and helped me to arrive at the arguments for the thesis. His persistent encouragement, his constant guidance from time to time and his patience in correcting my errors have enabled me to be clear with my ideas. My co-supervisor Dr. Prakash Kona has helped me in enormous ways in completing my thesis. His constant help and advice related to the documentation and presentations of the arguments in the thesis and his suggestions to take a wider literary and research approaches to read any text, have enabled me in my research writing and literary writing. Dr. Shilpa Anand has helped me with her guidance and her knowledge on the related area of study; I was able to gain the substance for many of the current research methodological approaches from the courses I had with her. I cannot forget those interactions with Prof. A. V. Ashok, who has referred me books and articles related to my chosen study, and explained me his views on anti-psychiatry. My friends Jibhi, Upamanyu and Aravind always alerted me with any new book or article related to my study whenever they came across. My fellow researchers in my Research Methodology class too shared the articles and books of my interest, which were useful for expanding my knowledge over the chosen study. My fellow researchers Syed Hussain and Anwesha Das were always ready to answer my queries related to the technicalities of the research documentation. I am thankful to many friends in Hyderabad, who made me feel comfortable in the place, who gave me wonderful memories of Hyderabad. I am thankful to the staff in Ramesh Mohan library at EFLU, office staff in the Department of English Literature, and Cell for the Disabled in EFLU for their continuous support. I am thankful to UGC for the fellowship which helped me to continue my research. My family is always with me whenever I try to fulfill my dreams. My father Mr. B.V.S. Abhimanya Kumar taught me how to live my life without ever losing hope. In spite of many difficulties, with his perseverance, he made me educated. My mother Mrs. Satyavathi with her love and patience supported me throughout my journey. Her determination to make me educated, enabled me to set goals in my life. I am thankful to my brother Mr. Harsha Teja, who always helped me whenever I am in need of. Finally, My husband Mr. Radhakrishna Pamarthi, with his unconditional support has given me strength and ability to complete this task. I am thankful to him for his confidence in my efforts, and his positive spirit that motivated me to overcome those challenges I had during this time.
