To every beginning, there is an end. The journey of a thousand miles ends with one step. Today, as I take the step of culminating my work I feel most privileged to express my unfeigned gratitude to all those who contributed in many ways to the success of this study and made it an unforgettable experience for me.

First and foremost, I offer my sincere gratitude to my supervisor Prof. Pankaj Seth, who has supported me throughout my thesis with his patience and knowledge whilst providing me the room to work in my own way. He has inspired me to become an independent researcher and helped me realize the power of critical reasoning. I also appreciate him for being extremely patient with me. It was his tremendous support which enables me to successfully balance my personal and professional life together.

I am also very thankful to Prof. Subrata Sinha, Prof. S.K.Sharma, and Dr. Anirban Basu, members of my doctoral committee for their encouragement, insightful comments and constructive criticism which helped me to develop a broader perspective on my research.

I am also indebted to Dr. Subrata Sinha, Director, NBRC, for providing me this opportunity to work in National Brain Research Centre.

I also extend my gratitude to all the honourable faculty members for teaching me Neuroscience during my course work and for their timely help in sharing of lab resources.

The administrative, academic, finance, library and DIC staff in NBRC is memorable for their prompt support during the entire stay. On a personal note, I owe a big thank to all the other members of NBRC family for their unconditional support, patience and care which they have provided to me and my son during our stay in NBRC and for helping me in all possible way.

I take this opportunity to sincerely acknowledge NBRC and the Centre for Scientific and Industrial Research, Government of India, New Delhi, for providing financial assistance in the form of Junior and Senior Research Fellowship which buttressed me to perform my work comfortably.

In my daily work, I have been blessed with a friendly and cheerful group of fellow students. These brilliant friends and colleagues inspired me over the many years. I thank my seniors Shaily and especially Pretty for teaching me most of the lab techniques. I also like to thank my wonderful juniors Mahar, Chitra, Reshma, Hriday and Priyanka for providing a stimulating and fun environment to learn and grow in and out the lab. My research would not have been possible without their help in their own different ways. Special thank to Ankita, Monika and Banshi for their patience and diligent efforts which they have put in my experiments. I also thank Yogita Di, Tanya, Reena, Anandita, Kanza, and all the project assistants and trainees who worked in the lab during my Ph.D. I was especially benefited from the truly professional support from Naushad Bhaiya and Meena Bhaiya. The whole lab has been like a second family to me where I have spent most of the time during my thesis.

I have been extremely lucky in having wonderful colleagues like Ritu, Aarif, Dharampal, Raghavan, Piyushi, Ruchi, Shankhmal, Avantika, Subhashika, and Himakshi who made the Ph.D. period, especially the first year the memorable one for me. I also cannot forget all my school and college friends who went through hard times together, cheered me on, and celebrated each accomplishment of mine as it was their own.

I am also thankful to my M.Sc. and M.Phil supervisors; Prof. Ajay and Prof. Preeti G. Joshi, respectively; for enlightening me with the first glance of research and for constantly encouraging me to pursue my interest in science.

I owe a special thank to my Junior Hriday, Apoorva, Anindita and my brother Jitendra who always unfailingly helped me by spending their precious time to read my manuscripts and thesis and gave their fruitful suggestions.

Words will fall short if I would like to express my deep sense of gratitude towards my parents for their unconditional trust, timely encouragement, and endless patience during this long journey. It was their love and hope for me that raised me up again when I got weary. My mother taught me to be patient in the toughest times and to never lose faith in God. My father inculcated in me the sense of determination, self-confidence and discipline. His utmost faith on me always encouraged me to move ahead in life with full fortitude. Dearest Meenu Di, my younger sister Himani and my brother Jitendra, deserve a very special mention for always cheering me up and spicing my life.

A journey is easier when you travel together. Interdependence is certainly more valuable than independence. It's my fortune to gratefully acknowledge my in-laws; my amazing and wonderful extended family. I am highly obliged to my mother-in-law Smt. Leelawati Tewari for her unfailing support and motherly care. She always helped me in my most difficult times despite her old age. Without her, it would not have been possible for me to complete my thesis so efficiently. I also thank the families of my brother-in-laws and sister-in-laws (Bhaiya, Bhabhi, Didi, Jijaji and their lovely kids) for their heart-warming love and endless patience. Although, I am not able to mention everybody's name here as the list is so long but I sincerely and deeply thank all of you for all the support, encouragement, love which you all have showered on me and for all those cheerful moments, which we have spent together. I doubt that I will ever be able to convey my appreciation fully, but undoubtedly, it's a great joy for me to be a part of this lovely family.

I am deeply flooded with emotions to express my gratitude of feelings towards Lalit, my dear husband and my true mentor in life. Understanding me the most, he has been my best friend and a great companion. He loved, supported, encouraged, entertained, and stood by me through all the ups and downs, despite the long distance between us. His everlasting smile and positive attitude toward life always helped me to overcome the toughest situations in the most positive way.

This list is incomplete without acknowledging Akshat, my little adorable son. His presence filled my life with everlasting joy, happiness and hope. His innocent smile is life's greatest blessing.

Today as this effort of mine is ready to face the daylight I thank the almighty for his constant blessings and grace.
