CONTENTS

Preface
1 – 4

Chapter – I

The Silk Route: History
5 – 37

1.1. The Old Silk Route
1.2. Alignment of the Silk Route
1.3. History of the Silk Fabric
1.4. The Great Silk Route: Formation and Development
1.5. Silk Route Under the Han Empire (206BC – 200AD)
1.6. Silk Route During the Tang Dynasty (AD 618 – 907)
1.7. Spread of Buddhism Along the Silk Route
1.8. Kushan and the Silk Route
1.9. Trade Along the Silk Route
1.10. The Markets of Silk and Its supply in Eurasia
  1.10.1 China
  1.10.2 Central Asia
  1.10.3 India
  1.10.4 Persia
  1.10.5 Byzantium

Chapter – II

Decline of the Silk Route
38 – 58

2.1 Downfall of Tang Dynasty
2.2 The Chaos of Five Dynasties
2.3 Advance of Islam towards Central Asia
2.4 Spread of Islam in China
2.5 The Collapse of the Mongol Empire
2.6 Opening of the Sea Route
2.7 Start of Maritime Trade Through Astrakhan
Chapter – III

Independence of Central Asian Republics and Revival of Silk Route

3.1 Central Asian Economies–
3.1.1 Kazakhstan
3.1.2 Kyrgyzstan
3.1.3 Uzbekistan
3.1.4 Tajikistan
3.1.5 Turkmenistan

3.2 Revival of Silk Route in Independent Central Asia

3.3 Interests of Central Asian Republics in Revival of Silk Route
3.3.1 Economic Interest
3.3.2 Political Interest

3.4 Reviving the Silk Route
3.4.1 Revival of Trans – Siberian Railway
3.4.2 Extension of Karakorum Highway to Silk Route
3.4.3 Silk Route versus Oil Route
3.4.4 The Caspian Pipeline Construction Route
3.4.5 Tengiz – Baku – Ceyhan Route
3.4.6 Turkmenistan – Afghanistan – Pakistan Route
3.4.7 Kazakhstan – Turkmenistan – Iran Route
3.4.8 Uzbek – Kazakhstan – China – Japan Pipeline
3.4.9 Tengiz – Kumkol – Pavlodar – Chimkent Pipeline
3.4.10 Eurasian Corridors

3.5 Problem and Prospects of the Restoration of Old Silk Route
3.5.1 Problems
3.5.2 Prospects

Chapter – IV

Role of External Powers in Silk Route Revival

4.1 Role of China
4.2 Russia’s Role
4.3 Interests of Japan
4.4 Role of Iran
4.5 Role of Turkey
4.6 Role of Pakistan
   4.6.1 Karakorum Highway as a Branch of New Silk Route
   4.6.2 Construction of Gwadar Port
4.7 EU's Policy and Action for New Silk Route
4.8 Role of USA in the Revival of Silk Route
4.9 World Bank and UNESCO Support

Chapter - V

Eurasian Land Bridge and Its Implications

5.1 A Factor of Promotion in Relationship
5.2 Destroying Drug Route
5.3 A Grand Design for Peace and Development
5.4 Promoting India – China – Russia: Tripartite Cooperation
5.5 New Silk Route as a Factor of Energy Security For India and China
5.6 A Factor of Modernization of Central Asia
5.7 A Land - Bridge for Global Trade
5.8 Implications of Eurasian Land Bridge
   5.8.1 Present Situation and Prospects from Trans – Siberian Railway
   5.8.2 Sakhalin Rail Tunnel
   5.8.3 The Development of Tuman Region
   5.8.4 Transport Corridor Europe–Caucasus–Asia (TRACEA) Project
   5.8.5 The New Silk Road Initiative Between Xinjiang and Eurasia
   5.8.6 North – South Corridor for International Transport
      5.8.6.1 The Caucasus Route
      5.8.6.2 The Central Asian Route
      5.8.6.3 The Caspian Sea Route
5.9 Reopening the Traditional Silk Route through Nathula Pass

Chapter - VI

Conclusions

Silk Road Chronology

Bibliography