As I reflect upon the time that has passed between the conception of my research and its completion, I feel abundantly grateful for the help, support and inspiration that I have received from my family, friends and associates. Looking back, I think that this work was destined but there were teething troubles and problems so enormous that I had almost dropped my research midway. Thanks to all those hands that have lifted me out of those deep black holes. The moral support has been overwhelming without which this work would not have been completed. Each person mentioned below is most valued and special. Thanks to each word of appreciation, faith and each pastry I received!!

To my cousin, Dr. Anurag Agarwal, I owe this thesis. He showed faith in me way back in 1994 when posting my Post Graduation mark sheet; he had taken the effort to procure my migration certificate as well from Lucknow University so that I could carry on with my Ph. D. But it was to be after two more degrees – my two sons!!

To my brother-in-law, Mr. Amit Agrawal, I ascribe the rebirth of this thesis. It was that cold evening in as family wedding function that he told the importance of being a doctorate. He reiterated the importance of doing research and I was happy that he could see the ability in me to do this work. Something danced inside me and I set forth.

To my husband, Mr. Sanjay Garg, who has been by my side at every step. I cannot forget the day he travelled with me 100 km to get an important part finished! He has fructified the seven vows we took in marriage in totality. His big encouraging smile has prodded me and his bear hug is my comfort zone and the cushion where I leap from.

To my two mothers! One natural - Mrs. Sita Agarwal and the other by law - Mrs. Rameshwari Garg. Both have supported me and my family all through. Whether I was low in moral quotient or hen pecked at home, they have been the two pillars of strength, on which I could always depend upon.

To my sister, Mrs. Preeti Bansal, for continuously prompting me to go on. I never felt her being elder to me by a year now more than ever when I was literally ordered day in and day out to complete the thesis as soon as possible. She has been a big help in taking major decisions of which she may even be not aware of.

To my two sons, Aamod Garg and Abhay Garg for tolerating my mood swings and being there; keeping me grounded to reality; their unshaken belief in me even after my bouts of anger. Thanks for heralding joy, happiness and laughter in my life.
To my two beautiful friends, Mrs. Nisha Tibrewala and Mrs. Shilpa Rungta, who believed in me more than myself. I have not seen anyone rejoicing in my successes more than them. They have seen me through the thick and thin of my life constantly without a thought for themselves. Thank God for making such selfless people.

To a very special friend who when we were working for the same education institution was never close but in this trail of research has been a constant support and my companion, Mrs. Ruchi Goyal. We have had hours of anxiety and fun together. We were made for each other for this particular stage of life and our confidence in each is well placed for life.

To all my friends at school who have constantly encouraged me and given me the energy to go on. Their trust was the light that saw me through.

To Mr. Pankaj Tiwari, for his remarkable prompt help. He deserves special thanks as he has helped my research at times and areas where I got stuck.

Let me not forget the assistance given by Mrs. Ashu Agarwal in the completion of my thesis.

To my late father, Dr. Hari Bhagwan, who saw his son in his daughter. His lessons of hard work, dedication to academics and research, clean heart and speech, love for the country have paid good dividends and are still a strong guiding force of my life.

The journey of my research was long, full of ups and downs but I am lucky to have got such an opportunity to explore the vast resources of literary value. Thanks to JJTU for giving me this opportunity to work and giving me such a life enriching experience.

The Maharashtra State Archives is considered as the oldest of the existing institutions of its kind in India. It was founded in 1821 and has in its custody the earliest manuscript of 1630. It was my privilege to have access to such esteemed material. The time spent there is etched in my mind forever. I was transported to the different eras through documents and it was a great pleasure to sit and study there. Thanks to everybody over there.

Special thanks are due to Asiatic society of Mumbai. I feel amongst the lucky ones to have been given an opportunity to go there and study.

Thanks are due to the library of Lions Juhu Nandlal Jalan College to bear my constant questions and timely provide the required material. Thanks to Mrs. Neeta Kamble for kind cooperation.

In the end I take this opportunity to thank Dr. Surekha Sawant, my guide for the journey of my research. Her faith in me propelled me to go on without looking back. Her constant advice and suggestions were most valuable. She is one of the calmest and composed Principals I have ever met and she has all the qualities of a great leader as put up in her office.
(learnt by heart by me by now over cups of tea and cold drinks!!). Thanks to her for taking out time from her busy schedule and make place for our discussions.
