ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This research work could not have been possible without many kinds of help from many individuals and institutions, including my family. To each one of them, I express my deep sense of gratitude.

First, I must thank the former Chairman, Professor M.G.S. Narayanan, and the former Member Secretary, Dr. R.C. Agarwal, Indian Council Historical Research (ICHR), New Delhi for their kindness in granting me study leave for two years (August 2003-August 2005) for research. This relieved me of the burdens of office and enabled me to concentrate wholly on the study. I also acknowledge with gratefulness Professor D.N. Tripathi, a former Chairman of ICHR for his large heartedness and words of encouragement. To the present Chairman Professor Sabyasachi Bhattacharya, I owe a deep debt of gratitude for all his thoughtfulness. A teacher like him affects eternity; perhaps, he himself can never tell where his influence stops.

Here I must confess that, though entirely fortuitous, I have had excellent opportunities at the ICHR to interact with research scholars, senior academics and eminent historians from whom I always learnt- my grateful thanks are most urgently overdue to all of them for broadening my understanding of history. Also, for this reason, ICHR as an institution in itself deserves my gratitude. I am glad to admit that the completion of the work was also made possible with the wishes and support of my colleagues at the ICHR, including all other friends to whom I shall ever remain beholden.

Secondly, I must thank the erudite faculty at the Zakir Husain Centre for Educational Studies (ZHCES), School of Social Science II, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi for all that they taught, and for their intellectual guidance. For their untiring and persistent efforts to educate me, therefore, perhaps, I can never sufficiently thank Professor Deepak Kumar, Professor A.K. Mohanty, Dr. Dhruv Raina, Dr. Minati Panda, Dr. S. Srinivasa Rao, Professor Karuna Chanana, and Professor Binod Khadria, as also Professor Geetha B. Nambissan, Chairperson, ZHCES- for all their enthusiasm and inspiration, and pain. But the receptacle was small and their bounties bounteous.

I am particularly beholden to Professor Deepak Kumar- a senior friend, who is ever a friend, philosopher and guide to many a friend in need -for all his active support, encouragement, and stimulating interest in the progress of the study towards completion. He is a friend indeed!

Thirdly, certainly worthy of my grateful thanks are the staff and personnel of the ICHR Library and Documentation Centre; of the JNU Central Library, including the ZHCES library, JNU; of the library of the National Museum of Natural History, New Delhi; All India University Board, New Delhi; National Archives; Central Secretariat Library, New Delhi; libraries of the Indian Council of Agricultural Research, Delhi and Indian Agricultural Research Institute, Delhi; and, of course, including the staff and personnel at the Parliament Library, New Delhi for providing the excellent facility for consulting the primary and secondary sources of my study, including prompt delivery of photocopies of documents/materials.

Finally, I thank my wife, Aditi, my daughter, Jeta, my son, Jai, and my brother, Rajesh for bearing with me, and allowing me the largest share of the use of the family PC, never ever losing patience.

S.M. Mishra

Saturday, March 15, 2008