ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

By the mercy of Almighty God this work is now complete for supplication. It has been my fortune to have received constant inspiration, stimulation and knowledge of my most revered teacher and guide – Dr.(Mrs.)Mridul Lata Mishra, ANDNNM Mahavidyalay, Kanpur. Infact, she aroused my interest and understanding on women issues and the concept of equality. She has provided valuable support by accessing periodically the progress and performance of this study. Most sincere thanks are due to her for her guidance and support.

I wish to particularly mention the contributions made by my parents, Late Dr. S. Musharraf Ali and Dr. (Mrs.) Tanvir Musharraf. Though my father could not see the completion of this thesis but his personal interest, guidance and encouragement went a long way to help me complete this arduous task. His undying quest for knowledge and dedication to his subject of Law shall inspire me till the end of time. As I write this acknowledgement today, I wish he was with me to cherish this moment. My mother supported me all the way with help and support at every stage. She not only contributed in terms of structuring and drafting of this thesis but also in reviewing of the material and conducting field survey. Her command over her subject of Political Science and English language has resulted in proper shaping of the present work. I have been exceptionally fortunate to have her by my side throughout and at all times.

My sincere thanks are due to my mentors, Ms. Kirti Singh, Advocate and Mr. Y.P.Narula, Senior Advocate. My experience with them in Delhi has been enriching. It was with Ms. Kirti Singh that I learnt the values of social work and got an insight into the social issues that are faced by the society in general and women in particular. Her work has contributed greatly to the upliftment and empowerment of women and shall forever inspire me.

I also wish to make a special mention of my colleagues who showed keen interest in my work and appreciated my efforts. My sister and brothers also deserve a special mention here as despite the circumstances they did not let my confidence break at any time.

Last but not the least I express my deep sense of gratitude to my husband, Mr. Mohd. Moajiz Farooqui for the extreme sacrifices he made to help me achieve my target. From technical inputs to library visits, his help and support has been invaluable. In the same breath, I also thank my in-laws for their appreciation.

I very sincerely record my sense of gratitude to all of the above.

My thanks are due to all those who have directly or indirectly contributed to the successful completion of this work.

Sumaiya Musharraf Farooqui
