ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

At the end of a long journey of search, a very long one at that, I remain with folded hands before God, the Spirit and the source of all wisdom, who sustains every seeker of knowledge. The subject matter of this search itself is a response to that ultimate source of truth; to whom everyone owes existence; for whom everyone is precious, and having the dignity of sharing in that one source.

I remember with utmost gratitude my guide and mentor, Rev. Fr. Jose Alex CMI. It was he who inspired me to pursue this higher level of learning, and to focus on an issue of social justice pertaining to the faith community to which I belong. He had been supportive with insights and timely corrections, and providing linkages with sources that could help me refine the research. Above all I thank him for giving me sufficient freedom, and also bearing with me, in spite of the various shortcomings in the processes regarding the deadlines and drafts.

I remember very specially Prof. P. Ramachandran, for his timely help in making the methodology clear and boosting my self-confidence by giving a clear ‘go-ahead’. Dr. M. Kannan, who is ever ready to help research scholars, had been very helpful with processing the statistical aspects of the data. I am very grateful to my senior colleague Dr. Mary Venus Joseph for her timely comments, suggestions and insights for improving the quality of the research. She had really gone out of the way to be of help in the process. I also thank our principal Dr. Joseph Injodey, and our former principal Dr. Antony Kariyil CMI, for the unstinted support I received in pursuing this research.

I owe special thanks for the continuous support and encouragement I received from all my family members – my parents, brothers, and sisters - and very specially my sister Lisue Xavier, her husband Dr. Newton Luiz and my niece Linda Luiz. They took pains to go through the entire report, correct language and typing errors, and assist with transliteration.
The invaluable services rendered by the computer centre of Rajagiri College of Social Sciences, especially, Mr. Tony M. J. and Mr. Arun Sam, were a tremendous support. I acknowledge the support from the library staff - Mr. Robert, Mr. Francis and Mr. Vijesh. The last minute and unavoidable support by Matha Press, its manager Mr. George, and its computer specialist Mr. Johny, is also remembered with gratitude.

I cannot forget the timely help rendered by my colleagues and friends at various levels of the research – Ms. Lekha Bhatt, Mr. Vincent Moothedath, Br. Sebastian, Ms. Geetha M., Fr. M.K. Joseph, Mr. Albert Kuruvila, Ms. Diana Thankachan, Ms. Asha Rao, Ms. Sheena Terrance and Ms. Nisha Sasidharan. I very specially remember Mr. Kunjumon, our office liaison with the university, who had taken on himself the responsibility that every requirement is taken care of within the stipulated time. I am really touched by the last minute help from Matha Press, especially Mr. Sugunan & Mr. George, and our staff Mr. Pius, Mr. Biju and Mr. Martin.

I am very much obliged to the DCMS units of the dioceses of Changanachery, Kanjirappally and Pala, their respective directors – Rev. Frs. Gregory Onamkulam, Josekutty and Mathew Kizhakkearanjaniyil, their office bearers, those in the leadership of DCMS, the erstwhile DCMS Kerala State Director, Rev. Fr. Jose Vadakkekkuttu, and the present Director Fr. John Areeckal, and all the Dalit Christian and other respondents who kindly spared their precious time with me for sharing their views and perceptions on the status and problems of Dalit Christians of Syrian Catholic Church of Keralam.

To them - the still stigmatized, and still continuing with the experience of being ‘crushed’ and ‘broken’ – the Dalit Christians of India, especially, the Dalit Christians of Syrian Catholic community of Keralam, I dedicate this humble work. I hope that this effort takes their struggle for justice and equality one step ahead.
