ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

In the course of my work, I found reading Lawrence Durrell quite difficult and impossible; at all those trying times it was my guide, Dr. C. Ravindran Nambiar, who gave me enough assurance and strength to get me back on the track. I recall with inexpressible gratitude, the tremendous help and right direction he rendered relentlessly. I thank him for his careful examination of the draft.

I am greatly indebted to Dr. Paul Lorenz, Secretary of The Lawrence Durrell Society, U. S. A., for his unconstrained benevolence in sending me all materials on Durrell from the Durrell archives in U. S. A. and France. I am specially grateful to Dr. Ian S. Mac Niven and his wife Susan Mac Niven for visiting my home at Trivandrum, during their visit to India to attend the Lawrence Durrell International Seminar at S. B. College, Changanacherry, and enlightening me on some aspects of the poet. I am also indebted to the Lawrence Durrell Centre at S. B. College, Changanacherry; the British Council Library, and the University Library, Trivandrum; and the A. S. R. C., Hyderabad. I am no less indebted to the University Library, Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S. A., for the immense help I received for collecting some valuable materials during my visit to U. S. A. to attend the X International Lawrence Durrell Conference, in May 1998. My special thanks to Mrs. Usha Gopi and family for the kind help of getting this thesis printed. My thanks are due also to my cousin Ms. Maya Jayanandan for her reading of the proof.

Above all my sincere thanks to my family especially my husband, daughter and mother, and my friends who gave me the right impetus to carry on my work.

B. S. JAMUNA.
