ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First and foremost, I thank the Almighty for charting the voyage of this thesis from the beginning till the end.

My deep gratitude and sincere regards are due to my supervisor, Dr Joseph Kachapilly. I had the privilege of his perceptive guidance at all stages of the preparation of this thesis. His infinite patience and sympathetic understanding have encouraged me to rethink many perspectives, and his friendly advice has stood me in good stead. I also acknowledge the hospitality extended to me by his family.

I am greatly indebted to the Manager of Prajyoti Niketan College, Pudukad, Rev. Dr Harshajan Pazhayattil and the Principal, Rev. Dr Jose Nedumpara for the facilities provided to help me complete my work. I also gratefully remember the former Principals, Rev. Fr Francis Kurissery and Dr Sr Ancy. I acknowledge the encouragement I received from my colleagues in the department of English and the support from my colleagues in the other departments of my college.

My thanks are also due to Dr Varghese John, the Principal of U. C. College, Aluva, Dr Raju K. John (former Principal), Prof. Sulatha Annie Thomas, H. O. D., and the other members of the Department of English. The Librarian, Mr Cherian and the staff in the library deserve due mention in this record.
The loving support of my father, my mother, my father-in-law and my mother-in-law has proved crucial during the entire course of my study. This work would have been impossible without the encouragement and patience of my husband, Sajan. I owe a lot to him and to my sons, Joel and Paul, who had to put up with a lot of inconvenience because of my repeated absence from home. My sister has been the Rock of Gibraltar in my life, encouraging me in times of doubt. I also wish to thank my brothers who have proved to be of invaluable assistance during the period of my research. The kind concern extended by relatives and in-laws have also proved fruitful.

May I use this opportunity to thank the University Grants Commission for awarding me the Teacher Fellowship to complete my research. I have also availed myself of the services of the libraries of CIEFL and ASRC in Hyderabad, the British Council Libraries at Trivandrum and Chennai and the departmental libraries of a number of other colleges.

I record my obligation to Dr Parvathy Warrier and Dr T. V. Thomas, who have also completed their doctoral studies on the work of R. S. Thomas.

This acknowledgement would not be complete without a mention of a number of people who gave me fresh insights into the subject – Dr Rajiv Krishnan, Dr Sebastian Pynadath, Prof. A. M. GeeVarghese, Mr. George P., Dr Annie David, Dr Ancy Eapen, and Dr Anne Mary Charles.

Finally, I specially thank Mr N. F. Jose, Ms. Jessy and Ms. Lini of St. Mary’s Photostat Centre for their vigilant effort and excellent work.
