ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Writing acknowledgement may be perhaps, happiest moment for a researcher, as he is close to conclude his research work he started. He is at the edge to conclude his research work for which he has spent so many hours and days. Research is a journey.. a never ending journey, a cycle which goes on. Researcher has to play his role and let others take it ahead. Whatever role the researcher has performed in this knowledge making process is an enlightening for his life. This enlightening in the life of research is brought by his interactions, communications, discoveries, preparations with many of the other individuals because of whom he could reach this destination.

The most important and a most accompanied individual, in this process, is the Research Guide of the researcher. The research guide takes researcher in an area of investigation where he/she helps him to help himself to be an independent person in the area of research. My research guide Dr. Haseena Begum Gulam Rasool is one of those enlighten guides who very easily and unknowingly of researcher, makes successful in the task of research. She, from very beginning, made me aware what research is. She has a unique style of making the researcher realize where they should focus. Her experience in the area is so rich that with a moment she understands the nuances of the research work. I have learnt a lot from her, beside the research journey. I owe too much to her in this journey, and I would like to remain in the debt of her wonderful guidance and support she gave me every time.

I would also like to thank to the Director and Principal of Research Center and H. o. D of Research Center at Government College of Education, Nanded, where I got the platform and way to complete the task of research undertaken.

I would also like to acknowledge the expertise who offered me their expertise advice for making my tools of research work sound and perfect.

I would also like to thank the Education Officers of Primary Section and Secondary Section of Palghar District who gave me permission to conduct experiments in five schools of Palghar district.

The principals, class teachers and subject teachers and students of the schools where I completed my experiments have been very helpful and kind to me to complete my work. Without their cooperation and support this was not possible. In the same way, this work was not possible without participation of the teachers in survey and students in experiments. I will be always a very grateful to them. This research was not possible to complete in time without the help taken from volunteers selected for conducting pre-tests and post-tests and implementing the activities. I am very thankful to them that they accompanied me in this research process and acted strictly as per the given guidelines.

The librarians of the central library of S. R. T. M. University, Nanded, Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar Marathwada University, Aurangabad, and University of Mumbai were very enthusiastic to render their services. It was great experience to visit these few of the finest storehouses of knowledge in Maharashtra.

The chairperson, the principal and all my colleagues including the librarian of Deep Education Society’s A. G. S. College of Education, Boisar were very kind towards me while I was completing my research work. Because of their support I could give qualitative time and effort. The college library, internet facilities and staffroom were open for me even on Sundays and holidays where I could seat and complete my work.

Last but not the least is my Mother Kamal, my wife Maya and my wonderful kids, Prashika and Prashil..who have been my inspiration throughout my research process.
