It gives me immense pleasure to convey my gratitude to my mentor, peers, family, and friends who supported and motivated me throughout my journey to achieve this feat. I am very happy to submit my thesis that has resulted from over six years of work. What looked like a very difficult task initially ultimately turned out to be a very rewarding journey made easier and memorable with help from many people.

Today, at the end of my journey of Ph.D, I want to acknowledge those without whom; it would not have been possible for me to reach my destination. First and foremost, I would like to thank my research supervisor and mentor, Dr. Vasudevan Seshadri, for his guidance, solid support and also for creating and maintaining a relaxed, enjoyable, familial atmosphere and teaching me how to work as a team as well as an independent researcher. I was learning and observing you for last five years that you have got an exceptional scientific skill, talent and growing interest in science that make you a successful mentor.

It is my pleasure to express my profound gratitude to Padmashree Dr. G.C. Mishra, Ex-Director NCCS and Dr. S. Mande Director NCCS, for allowing me to carry out my doctoral research at NCCS with excellent infrastructure and facility.

The reconcilement will be out of tune if I do not acknowledge all the core facilities of NCCS including Sequencing facility (Girish), Media section (Bhimashankarji), Maintenace section (Mr. Sindagi) for regular instrument maintenance to allow the work to go uninterrupted, washing room, computer section (Mr. Jadhav, Ms. Kirti and Mr. Solanki), library (Nimaji), Electrical substation (Mr. Puri), Academic cell, Administration and repository for providing access and facilities to smoothly sailing of the work. My special thanks to Gulab, Rajaram and Tukaram for the delicious food served in hostel and canteen respectively.

I would like to express my deep gratitude and sincere thanks to Dr. Jomon Joseph for being a member and evaluating my research progress in various academic presentations. I thank him and his lab members for their constructive and thoughtful suggestions during our weekly journal club meeting, and also for providing me an access to his lab reagents/instruments.

I wish to express my sincere thanks to Dr. Wani, Dr. Kundu and Manas Santra for allowing me using their instruments and maintaining a very pleasant environment to work in the lab. I am very thankful to Dr. Manoj Kumar Bhat for her suggestions for finding a post doc and finally giving a strong recommendation.

I express my deepest appreciation to my seniors Shardul, Prachi, Arya, Poonam for their continuous help and encouragement during initial stages of my work. Especially I thank them to teach me how to work in a group and finally helping me in various aspects scientifically and morally.

Words fail to express my sincere gratitude to my wonderful lab mates Jatin, Pranita, Naina, Shehnaj, Sarika, Sunithi and Shilpa for creating a pleasant work environment and their support in many scientific and non-scientific issues. I heartily thank them for their humorous jokes to make the hectic lab environment very cool to work and making me feel at home during my stay in the lab. Without their encouragement and understanding it would not have been possible to submit my thesis. Words are quite inadequate to pay my sense of credit to Ms. Mondekar and Mrs. Arti for providing all the reagents for the work and more than that creating a healthy atmosphere in the lab.
