Acknowledgment

It gives me immense pleasure to convey my gratitude to my mentors, peers, family, and friends who supported and motivated me throughout my journey to achieve this feat. First and foremost, I would like to thank my research supervisor and mentor, Dr. Prakash Deshpande and Co-guide, Dr. Padma Shastry, for being a constant source of motivation and encouragement throughout this expedition. Thank you for having faith in my abilities which inspired me every day to try harder to attain my research goals. The freedom you have provided me while designing and executing the experiments has helped me to develop independent thinking and scientific temperament. I am very thankful for your valuable scientific discussions and the uninhibited laboratory environment you have created that nurtured me professionally and personally.

I am sincerely grateful to Dr. Shekhar C. Mande (Director, NCCS) for giving me the opportunity to work in NCCS and providing the adequate infrastructure. I owe my sincere gratitude to Dr. Sandhya Sitasawad for sharing the lab reagents and space and creating a congenial working environment. I would like to thank Dr. Shouche, Dr. Jomon Joseph and Dr. Mohan R. Wani for allowing me to use their lab equipments and reagents, which made my work hassle-free. I am very grateful to Dr. Debashish Mitra, Dr. B.B Nath and Dr. Vasudevan Sheshadri for their helpful and critical suggestions during various assessment committees that helped to improve my research work.

I am indebted to the staff of all the central facilities at NCCS. The staff at academics has been very patient and extremely helpful and they made meeting deadlines possible. The stores and purchase, accounts, administration, and computer section staff were instrumental in ensuring a smooth ride. I would like to acknowledge the co-operation of the instrumentation and maintenance facility, especially Mr. Sindgi who has always been available at the earliest whenever needed. Special thanks to the staff of washing and packing section, media section, cell repository, electric sub-station, and AC plant for providing impeccable technical support. I thank Mr. Behera and Mr. Nema for well-organized library facility and their co-operative personalities.

I am grateful to Dr. Limaye and her talented staff at the core FACS facility, especially Hemangini Ma’am who assisted me in both carrying out experiments and developing technical skills. I would not have been able to complete my thesis work without their help and support.

I also thank Dr. Vasudevan Sheshadri and Dr. Lenka for providing the hostel facilities.
I would like to thank Department of Biotechnology (DBT) for providing me the financial support during my Ph.D. tenure. I am grateful to the Department of Biotechnology, Savitribai Phule Pune University for allowing me to register as a Ph.D. student; I get to carry its prestigious reputation along. I would also like to thank Department of Biotechnology (DBT, India), The Centre for International Co-operation in Science (CICS, India), and NCCS for providing me the financial support to present my thesis work on national and international platforms.

I have no words to appreciate the support and contributions given by my lab members throughout the tenure of my Ph.D. I am extremely grateful to all labmates (Ashwin, Appu, Mithila, Shilpa, Prachi and Dinisha) who not only helped in research but also maintained joyous environment in the lab. I would cherish our memorable moments outside NCCS campus; our late night coffee cravings, always ready for crazy activities, and all girls Goa trip. I am grateful to Deval Sir for being always helpful in experimental as well as other things in the lab. I would like to thank Mrs. Jayashree Jagtap and Mrs. Tanuja for extending their support in the lab. I would like to extend my thanks to lab assistant Lakhan for his help in the lab management. I would like to thank my juniors Rohini, Deepali, Megha, Vishi, and Sunita for being supportive in the lab.

This acknowledgment would not be complete without mentioning an awesome set of people who would go on to become my friends and my family in NCCS. Thanks a lot Sagar, Sheetal, Hina, Prithvi, Meenakshi, Tushar and Prachi for your love and support, which made my stay at NCCS memorable. We are birds of a feather flock together who share the same kind of weirdness. I can never forget our amazing time together; our adventurous trips, game nights, customary Saturday night dinners, merry celebrations, and our friendship through thick and thin. I would like to thank my wonderful room-mates and dearest friends, Ankita and Prajakta who have always been there whenever I was in need. Mahesh, I cannot thank you enough for being a rock solid support for me and putting up with my eccentricities. I would also like to thank Ravi, Palak, Ajinkya and Sai for their help and support. Thank you all for being who you are and I would always treasure this friendship.

I am falling short of words in expressing my deepest gratitude to my beloved family who has been the pillar of my accomplishments throughout these years. I am indebted to my family who always encouraged me to follow my dreams and their blessings made me more efficient and determined in attaining my aspirations. Thank you Mummy, Pappa, and Akshay for your endless support. I would like to express my love to my cousins who are the little bundles of joy. Everything that I have achieved in my life would not have been possible without the love and support of my Appa and Kaku. Even though you are not with us today, you will always inspire me to dream big and be a good human being. Above all, I humbly thank Almighty for giving me the strength and hope through hurdles of life.

Thank you all!
