Acknowledgement

Acknowledgement and expression of gratitude is not an easy task especially, when genuine. My friends who have completed their research work have often reminded me that doing research is like a journey to know the unknown. During the course of this journey, we come across several faces and pass through different phases that play a pivotal role in its completion. On reaching the destination and when I sit for an ‘easy-chair meditation’, I recollect those phases and faces.

I was lucky to undertake this work under the able guidance of Dr. K.V. Raju, Head of the Department of Economics, Sacred Heart College, Thevara, Kochi. I have inherited richly from his innovative ideas, constructive criticism, the generosity in giving room for academic freedom, the urge for logical consistency and above all his compassion. My discussions with Raju sir have helped me to correct my derailed thoughts. I acknowledge with deep gratitude the greatness of his character, his workmanship and the uncompromising commitment towards academics. His patience in repeated correction is deeply honoured. If this work has come out in this form, it is the result of his excellent direction and vision. I also take this opportunity to thank the endless support and assistance given to me by Rev. Fr A.J Saviance, Principal, Sacred Heart College, Thevara, Kochi.

I wish to acknowledge the kindness showered upon me by Prof M.P Varghese, Secretary, Mar Athanasius College, Kothamangalam who gave me permission to register for research while I was working in the college as guest lecturer. I also thank the then Head of the Department, Dr. Sheela Varghese who forwarded my letter to the management. I cannot forget the heart full prayers of Dr. Leena George and the genuine concern of Dr. Manjula.

This work in its present form would not have materialised, but for the selfless support and co-operation received from several persons related to the Ayurvedic Industry. I bow before the memories of late Dr N.V KrishnanKutty Varier, Arya Vaidya Sala who introduced me to the world of Ayurveda. I gratefully, acknowledge Padmasree Dr P.K. Warrier, Managing Trustee, Mr. Ramachandran, Material Manager, Smt Ganga Warrier, Sri Unnikrishan and Mr. Ajay who helped me during the various stages of my data collection at Arya Vaidya Sala. I take this opportunity to thank the endless support given to me by the managerial staff of Oushadi especially, Dr. Gopalan, Dr. Aarati, Mr. Shibu and Mr. Vijayan. I sincerely thank Mr. Jayadevan who took efforts to introduce me to Mr. Jathevedan Nambuthiripad and Mr. Ajayan of Nagarjuna, which helped me to complete my data analysis.

I take this opportunity to offer respects to my teachers Rev. Fr A.U Varghese, Dr K. Ramachandran Nair, Dr S. Uma Devi, Prof I.D Michael and Dr V.T Jose for their prayers and affectionate enquiries. I know that they will be very happy to see this work completed.
My friends Job, Dr Shaheed Ramzan and Dr Sindu have been my morale booster during the determining stages of my study. Job stood as a pillar of strength, Shaheed shared his experiences to keep me confident and Sindu remained a good listener with whom I have discussed most of my immature academic thoughts.

I am deeply indebted to the assistance given to me by Dr. Rajeswari Devi, former Principal and my present Principal, Prof, Aley-subha, Government College Tripunithura. I have no words to acknowledge the tonnes of encouragement and prayers of my Head of the Department, Dr. Prasanna who took utmost care to keep me away from all official responsibilities, giving me adequate time to study. The practical advices of my senior colleague Prof K.K Rajeev cannot be forgotten. I thank all my colleagues at the Department of English who clarified my grammatical doubts.

I cannot forget the warmest enquiries and unchanging support of Prof. Brinda, Prof. V.S Dileep, Mr. Ullas and Dr. Jaya. Mr.Anil Kumar at Vaidyaratnam introduced me to several personalities in the industry, which helped me immensely. Dr Adityababu and Dr. Krishna Kumar helped to understand Ayurvedam. My thanks are also to Dr. Ajith Kumar who assisted me during the registration session. I take this moment to acknowledge the selfless help given to me by the librarians at KFRI, Peechi, CDS Thiruvananthapuram; KSIDC, Thiruvananthapuram and RBI, Ernakulam. I thank Dr. Martin Patrick and Dr. S.Muralideebharan, of Maharaja’s Government College, Ernakulam who introduced me to the concept of supply chain. I also thank Alby, Manjesh and Joicy who took sincere efforts to type the work neatly and correctly.

Back home my family has often been my biggest support and weakness. My father was very particular that I should complete this work. I could feel the warmth of my mother’s prayers throughout the period of study. I thank my brother Anil and sister-in-law for their well wishes. I have immensely benefited from the botanical expertise of my father-in-law. Most often, he stood besides me as a friend lending a helping hand especially while the thesis was in the press. My mother-in-law, Rajesh and Reshmi assisted me in taking over many of my domestic responsibilities at various periods. If this work has materialised in this form it is the matchless support given to me by my wife Dr Radhika. Without a word of criticism and with her silent encouragement, she stood as a bridge across troubled waters. She was always there saying that everything would come out fine. Those words really energised me. Perhaps the bitterest phase in the whole journey was not finding sufficient time to be with my little angel Anjana and tiny tot Arjun that made me realise the value of precious fatherhood.

Above all, during the course of these years, I could realise the innumerable blessings showered upon me by the Lord, Almighty who carried me through the most troublesome periods by sending his representatives to assist me by a word, an act, or by a touch.
