Table of Contents

1 Introduction

2 Review of Literature
2.1 Studies Related to Customer Justice Perceptions and Satisfaction with service Recovery and Post-recovery Behavior
2.2 Studies Related to Customer Satisfaction and Behavioral Intentions
2.3 Studies Related to Non-Complainants Behavior
2.4 Studies Related to Severity of Service Failure and Service Recovery Paradox
2.5 Summary

3 Model Development
3.1 Impact of Perceived Justice on Customers’ Satisfaction with Service Recovery
  3.1.1 Distributive Justice and Customer Satisfaction with Service Recovery
  3.1.2 Procedural Justice and Customer Satisfaction with Service Recovery
  3.1.3 Interactional Justice and Customer Satisfaction with Service Recovery
3.2 Customer Satisfaction with Service Recovery and Behavioral Intentions
  3.2.1 Satisfaction with Service Recovery and Word of Mouth
  3.2.2 Satisfaction with Service Recovery and Repurchase Intentions
3.3 Satisfaction with Service Recovery as a Mediator between Perceived Justice and Behavioral Intentions
3.4 Severity of Service Failure: Direct and Moderating Effect
3.5 Service Recovery Paradox
3.6 Competing Model
3.7 Summary

4 Data Base and Research Methodology
4.1 Research Design
4.2 Sampling Methodology
  4.2.1 Sample Population
  4.2.2 Sampling Unit