ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Any Research work is a laborious, exhausting and a challenging task which require great human efforts. Concluding it gives an impression of concluding a long Odyssey of learning, experience and knowledge. At the end it becomes a part of your personality and the learning’s are engraved within your memories. Several people meet you in this journey but few of them remains with you as a part of reminiscences.

Research work demands diligence of mentors who initiates as torchbearers and soon becomes a paragon of docility. No work can finally reach to end without the assistance of a Teacher or Guru. A Guru is like a beacon that shows us the right path. In Indian tradition, a teacher or a guru occupies the place of ‘God’ because he or she inculcates the disciplines and passion to achieve success in a student’s life. In Sanskrit, the term Guru connotes that, he who removes darkness and brings enlightenment. They are the illuminating light behind the success of students and acknowledging them is something which students always need to remember.

So my first and foremost heartfelt thanks to my Guru, Professor (Mrs) Gurpreet Bal for guiding me in this research journey. Perhaps Words will prove inadequate for me to express what regards I hold for her. Her insightful guidance and wisdom always motivated me to grow more in this field. She explicated and unfolded the truth of life that hard work always pay and no human efforts goes wasted. Apart from her guidance during this research work, there is one more things which I have learned from her was ‘patience’, perhaps a silent key behind every success.

I am equally grateful to Professor Paramjit S. Judge, Head of the Department for his insightful guidance during the time when the idea of pursuing my doctoral seemed to be in dilemma. However, his valuable guidance and criticisms during that time took me to the acme of success. My gratitude is also due to Professor M.S.Gill who introduced me to this field of HIV/AIDS. I also owe deep sense of gratitude to Prof. R.S.Sandhu and Prof. Jasmeet Sandhu for their encouragement and moral support. I feel obliged while thanking the non teaching staff of this department S. Succha Singh (Steno), S. Natha Singh (Librarian) and especially Mrs. Amarjeet Kaur (Librarian) who rendered me necessary help from time to time by providing me the relevant material for my research work.

As I hail from a business class family, the biggest phobia for me was to join my family business. But I was fortunate in this matter as my family members never forced me to join business and allowed me to continue with my research work. Their quiet encouragement and patience have immensely contributed to the successful completion of my study.

I would also like to acknowledge the names of the faculty members and junior residents from Department of Microbiology, Government Medical College, Amritsar without whom the research work would have been a resilient task. I extend my deep sense of gratitude to Prof. Usha Arora, Prof. Pushpa Devi, Prof. Neerja Jindal and Dr. Shashi Chopra for their valuable guidance and support. I also provide my sincere thanks to Dr. Jagesh Chandna, Dr. Shalini, Dr. Aarti, Dr. Shilpa and Dr. Shimpy, Dr. Pushapindra Kaushal and Dr. Satish, Junior Residents for facilitating me during my research work. My humble thanks are due to Ms. Meenakshi Sharma, Then Counsellor, Integrated Counselling and Testing Centre for her motivation and also for strengthening my counselling skills.

I am equally thankful to Mrs. Pawan Rekha Beri, Assistant Director ICTC, Punjab State AIDS Control Society, Chandigarh for her valuable guidance and never ending support. My heartfelt thanks are also due to Ms. Harjyot Khosa, Training Officer in State Training and Resource Centre, School of Public Health, PGIMER, Chandigarh for her valuable contribution in providing the resource material.

I fall short of words to express my deep sense of gratitude and sincere thanks to my teacher Mr. Rajinder Kumar Shingari who initially taught me Karate but became a Guru in true words. During the arduous research work, interactions with the hard realities of life and deceptive appearances of people, my research work became extremely agonizing. I often visited his place with eyes full of tears and heart filled with solitude. I was unable to combat with such hardships as I never faced much of those in my past life. However, his discourses and meditation techniques during that point of time were the primary force behind my efficacious working which provided me complete sense of serenity and tranquillity. Moreover, his supervision during my visits to the red lights areas of Sonagachi in Kolkata was also very obliging in studying the trend of Prostitution in India.

I cannot let this moment pass without acknowledging the role of a wonderful mentor whose role is quiet significant in reaching my study to the triumph. I owe my deep sense of regard to Mrs. Roopam Walia who initially met as a stranger but in short span of time became a tutor and epitome of motherly figure. Sitting next to her always gave me a sense of sitting in cradle of comfort, warmth and respect. My words of gratitude seem frail next to her courtesy. Her wisdom and attitude towards life seems to be very exceptional. She holds my hand at the time when all the `sources and friendly relations became traitorous and treacherous against me and all the fake promises became apparent.

Finally, I acknowledge the encouragement, support, guidance and valuable suggestions of all those whom I have not named, all those who helped me in bringing out this research work to an ending stage and to all my respondents who shared their hardships of life.
