ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First and foremost, glory to the Lord God for his love and protection throughout my research work. I duly acknowledge the unbounded gratefulness to my supervisor Dr. K. RAJA MOHAM RAO, Reader Department of Economics in his sincere expression of inestimable gratitude, indebtedness and deep sincere devotion, for his abiding interest, enlightened guidance incessant inspiration, creative suggestions, constructive criticisms, persistent encouragement and timely help during the study period.

I humbly offer my ineffable sincere thanks to the member of my Doctoral committee Dr. M.V. SRIHIVASA GOWDA, Professor and Head Department of Economics University of Agricultural Sciences, Bangalore for his inexplicable help, excellent counseling and enthusiastic support evinced throughout the research period. Subsequently I am immensely thankful to Br. A. AKOKIASAMY, Professor and Head, Department of Economics, Gandhigram who with genuine concern in my advancement kept my spirit unfledged in moments of despair. Other staff members in the department Dr. P. SUMANGALA, Dr. S. RAMACHANDRAN, Stari. K. NEHRU and especially Br. S.RAMASWAMY for motivating me and egging me to do better and still better in my research. I cherish the long discussion I had with the former Professor and Head Department of Economics GRI Dr. B.S. NAGARAJAN, the pointed questions he raised during the discussion, deciphering the hidden incongruities and errors hence helping me to articulate better.

I have always believed that one could not have been without the other. This study in the present form is an outcome of efforts and assistance rendered by a number of respondents, statistical assistants and experts in concerned area of energy. I am grateful to all the respondents- households, government and non-government- officials who supplied me with valuable quantitative and qualitative information. I express my sincere thanks to the staff members in the Ministry of Energy headquarter Nairobi Kenya, Dr. Fridah Wilumila Mugo, John Mecheo, John Mbuthi, V.O. Omotto, Manager Ministry of Energy Kisii for availing me with the required information. I also thank A. Panduraagan, Professor of Statistics, EVR College, Trichy, for his timely help in processing the data. I also thank the Indian Government through the Ministry of Human Resource Development (HRD) for providing me with a research Visa.

My deep sense of gratitude is extended to my friends Dr. Samuel ffyagwefaa Oresi, Ministry of Railways Kenya, Dr. Samuel Kakuko Lopoyetusnu Post-Doctoral Research Fellow GRI, Dr. Alankara Masilla Mani, Dr. A. Anna Durai, Dr. Chinnadurai, James Nyabochoa Ministry of Finance Kenya, Evans Mogambi Onywere, Vane Moraa Nyarige, Phane Nyaboke Ongaga, Eric Ndemo Okoyo and Nehemiah Nyakundi, B.T. Srinivas for inspiring and motivating me during the research period. I am deeply indebted to Dr. P.K. Sheety Research Scientist, National Institute of Advanced Studies, Indian Institute of Science Campus, Bangalore, Dr. M. Mitchell F. Rice Professor and Director Race and Ethnic Studies Institute, Texas A&M University, USA., Jack Momanyi Hyalboefaca whom evinced my interest in the field of Rural Energy.

I also express my sincere thanks to Dr. B.D. Rajitha Kiamari, Sr. Lecturer in Plant Science, Bharathidhasan University, Trichy and her family, Divya, Deepti for their hospitality during the final stages of my research.

Last but not least I deeply appreciate the enormous contributions made by my family members: my beloved parents Rodha Getega and Patroba Ongaro, Uncle Simion Wyacfaie Ombese, Simion Osadimu Ogutu, Aunt Bosibori, Gesare, my affectionate brothers: Simon Mogaka, David Aminga, Bossingtome Maxdere, Boit Meshack, Finley Nyasani and Absent Machogu, sisters: Teresa Bonari, Biritha Kemunto, Drusila Mongina and Yunuke, Sister-in-laws: Salome Kemwoto, Yunuke Simion, Lister Maadere and Esiock Omar! Nyatato without whose financial support, sincere prayer from time to time my long desired educational endeavour was to be a fiasco. To these souls, I dedicate my work. I thank Vedha CoapateffS} Gaadfaigrana for their timely typing.
