ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am thankful to a number of individuals and institution without whose help and cooperation, this doctoral study would not have been possible. As I write this part, I recollect the gainful insights and thoughts of a great number of researchers and government officials in the country. Throughout the thesis, I have acknowledged their contribution.

Prof. R. Limbadri, Registrar, Telangana University, my research supervisor, has been a constant source of inspiration. I am grateful to him for guiding me though the study. His rich and scholastic experience in the areas of Human Resource Management, Rural Governance and Public Administration was of immense help this study. Prof. Limbadri motivated me to choose this research problem. I sincerely thank him for sparing time to guide this work despite his administrative responsibilities.

I would like to express my sincere thanks to the faculty and staff of the Department of Public Administration, Osmania University. Prof. D. Lalith Kumar, Head, Dept of Public Administration, Prof. M. Ramakrishnaiah, Chairman, BOS helped me all along in completing the doctoral program. My special thanks are due to Prof.Y.Pardhasaradhi and Prof. Ravinder Kaur, for their motivation, encouragement, support, and incisive suggestions.

I would also like to express my gratitude to Prof. K. Srinivasulu, Dean, Faculty of Social Sciences, and Prof. S. Mallesh Principal, University College of Arts & Social Science, Osmania University for their support and help.

My thanks are due to Dr. C. Aruna Jyothi, Dr. B. Amarender Reddy, Dr. S. Bala Bramha Chary and Dr. G. Ram Chandra Reddy, Department of Public Administration, for their support and encouragement.

I am indebted to Dr. M. Venkat Ram Reddy, Dr. D. Paul Sugandhar and Dr. K. Thirupathi, Research Scholars, Osmania University for their timely help and assistance in finalizing this study. I am also acknowledge the help of department staff Ms. Sarojini and Mr. K. Durga Prasad, Department of Public Administration, OU.

I am greatly beholden to my parents Kamal Pasha (late) and my mother Maheih. There are no words to describe their contributions to my life. I owe every bit of my existence to them.

My wife Fathima and my beloved children, Amir Mohammad, Amir Ali and Mohammad Mahdi have been constant source of strength all along. They have put up with all difficulties during the course of my research work. This study would not be possible without their support and strength.