

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

First and foremost, my greatest gratitude goes to the Almighty for His countless blessings in my life without whom I would not be what I am today.

My sincere thanks and gratitude goes to my supervisor, Prof. Amena Nora Passah for her guidance. Her dedication since the beginning of the preparation till the completion of this thesis is invaluable. Her extensive professional guidance taught me a great deal about research and it shall be treasured. Her encouragement and counselling both professionally and personally has been the inspiration that I shall cherish the most. Similarly, profound gratitude goes to Prof. A. K. Thakur, for his untiring efforts to groom me in my academic career. As my teacher and mentor, he has taught me more than I could ever give him credit for. I am deeply grateful to Prof. F. A. Qadri for his help and support. I would also wish to give special thanks to all my teachers and non-teaching staff of the Department of History, NEHU, Shillong for being so kind to me and helping me enormously during the research.

I am also thankful to the staff of the office of the Khasi-Jaintia Conference of Seventh-day Adventists Shillong, Adventist Higher Secondary School and North-east Adventist College, Thadlaskein for the assistance during the period of my data collection. The thesis would not be in its form without the feedback of the respondents; therefore, I put on record my gratitude to all of them. Grateful thanks also goes to Dr. O. L. Snaitang for sparing his time whenever I needed his help.

This work would not have been possible without the financial support of the Indian Council of Historical Research. Therefore I am deeply thankful to the Council for providing me the financial support which I needed the most. I am also thankful to the ICSSR-NER for providing the assistance for this research. My deep sense of gratitude also is to my friend Mr. Jonathan Nongbri (Assistant Librarian) and the staff of NEHU Central Library for their help in different areas related to my visits at the library. I also acknowledge the help and services rendered by the staff of Assam State Archives, Guwahati; North Eastern Council Secretariat Library, Shillong and Sacred Heart Theological College Library, Shillong. Equal thanks goes to the staffs of the office of the Dean Students' Welfare, Examination department of NEHU and various departments of NEHU Administration for rendering the necessary help for me.

I am indebted to my friend Ms. Balarishisha Nongkynrih and my nephew Gary not only for their motivation but for constant help during the arrangement of data, which I shall forever remain grateful. I am indebted to my local guardian Mrs. Sidoris Lyngdoh (Theirit) for being there for me through all these years. I cannot forget Dr. P. Hangsing (faculty and warden NEHU) and his family for providing me the care, inspiration and comfort in times of need. A very special mention of thanks is to Mei A. Kharshiing (Canteen in front of Central Library NEHU) and her family for their inestimable support throughout my research. A deep appreciation also goes to Bah Rit and Rap for helping with the printing works. I am indeed thankful to all my dear friends, colleagues and relatives for encouraging me to embark on my research and helped me during my field works. Since space does not allow me to mention all of those with whom I have had the pleasure to work during my research, my gratefulness for their support and help is not less, the least I could say here is Khublei Shibun.

Last but not the least, the most important acknowledgement is reserved for my dear father Mr. Mlonstarwell Pdahkasiej. His immeasurable love, care and affection, never-ending support and encouragement sustained me through the good and difficult periods of my life. His patience and humility inspired me all these years. The dedication of the thesis to him is the least that I could do.
